Fob attached to the watch.

A casket containing $1000 worth of jewelry was stolen from the bedroom dresser of Mr. and Mrs. George W. Teasdale at 4312 Delmar boulevard while they slept Thursday night. The police believe porch-climbers, who have lain low for a year, are guilty of the robbery.

The empty jewel box was found early Friday in the back yard of the Teasdale home. The entire house had been searched for valuables, as evidenced by open drawers, though nothing was glaringly disarranged. No loss other than the jewels was discovered.

The theory is that the thieves climbed the front porch, loosened the wire screen at the front window and escaped after the robbery through the kitchen door, which they left unlocked.

Mr. and Mrs. Teasdale were away from home until 10 o'clock. A few minutes after their return, their servant arrived and the entire household went to bed about the same time.

Occupied Front Room.

Mr. and Mrs. Teasdale occupy the front room on the second floor. A window opens on a porch and it was left partially up when the couple retired, a wire screen being considered ample protection against thieves.

Mrs. Teasdale removed her jewelry and placed it in a jewel box on the dresser, and a few minutes later she and her husband were asleep.

They did not hear a sound during the night, but when they arose for breakfast, Mrs. Teasdale was surprised by failing to see the jewel casket in its accustomed places, where she knew she had put it the night before. She searched the room, but could not find it, and then it was realized that it had been stolen.

showed evidences of a stranger's nocturnal visit. Drawers had been pulled out and every conceivable place where money could be secreted had been investigated. The kitchen door was not secured and the key was on the inside.

This had excited the servant's curiosity when she went downstairs to prepare breakfast, for she thought she had locked it before she went to bed. But she was not certain until Mrs. Teasdale informed her that her jewel casket, containing $1000 worth of property, was missing.

Empty Box in the Yard.

The back yard was searched and the empty box was found. The thieves had stopped long enough to taxe what was in it, climbed the back fence and escaped.

The police believe that more than one person had a hand in the robbery, and a half dozen detectives were put on the case immediately after it was reported. They think porch climbers are renewing operations in the West End, which they kept in a state of terror for weeks a year ago.

Mr. Teasdale is vice-president of J. Teasdale & Co., a commission concern.

HUSER AND HIS WIFE RECONCILED

Carl L. W. Huser and his wife, Bertha, have been reconciled, according to statements made by Huser's employer, neighbors and relatives, and it is said that they left for New York together Thursday.

Huser filed suit for divorce a week ago, mentioning Dr. Harry Upshaw of 3186 Morganford road in his petition.

In keeping watch on his wife, Huser used a system of mirrors so arranged that he could stand in the basement and see what was going on in the room above.

At the time of the separation the Husers lived at 3707 Arkansas avenue. Since then Huser has been boarding with the family in the upstairs flat in the same house, and Mrs. Huser has been at the home of her mother, Mrs. Wendt, 3195 Alfred avenue.

At the Arkansas street house it was said Friday that Huser left there Wednesday. Huser is said to have gone to the home of Mrs. Wendt to meet his wife, and the reconciliation followed. There was no one at home at the Wendt flat Friday.

Dr. Upshaw said dto a Post-Dispatch reporter:

"I understand that the Husers have made up and have gone away together."

PARTLY CLOUDY AND SHOWERS

Sunburn is not going to be an easy thing to acquire Friday and Saturday, for Old Sol is going to play hide-and-seek in the clouds which have been playing a several days' engagement around St. Louis. The weather man also declares someone will in all probability get up and put the windows down Friday night.

The forecast: "Partly cloudy with showers and probably thunderstorms Friday night or Saturday; cooler Saturday; south winds, shifting to northwest Saturday."

CABINET SESSION DISCUSSES CASE OF STANDARD OIL

Longest Meeting in Months Given Up to Consideration of Proposed Prosecution.

WASHINGTON, June 22.—Practically the entire session of the Cabinet today was devoted to a consideration of proceedings likely to be begun by the Department of Justice against the Standard Oil Co. It is well understood that these proceedings have been under consideration for some time, but the precise nature of them will not be known until Attorney-General Moody makes a statement which he has promised to do some time this evening.

Just prior to the Cabinet meeting the Attorney-General said that he would have a statement on the subject some time during the day.

At the conclusion of the meeting, which lasted from 11 o'clock until 2 and was one of the longest sessions held for several months, the Attorney-General said that it possibly would be late in the afternoon before he would be able to issue his statement. He said that it had not been "fully prepared" and that he would give no intimation of its contents until he was ready to make public the entire statement.

It is known that the Department of Justice for several weeks has been making an investigation into the transactions of the Standard Oil Co. with a view to prosecution if it were found that the law in any way had been violated. It is quite certain that a decision finally has been reached to enter upon proceedings against the oil combine, but how and when the Government will proceed will not be disclosed until the Attorney-General shall have made his statement.

MURDERESS AND 'PAL' GET RESPITE

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo., June 22.—Gov. Folk today granted a respite to Aggie Myers and Frank Hottman, sentenced to hang at Liberty, Mo., June 29, until Monday, Sept. 3.

The Governor said that he granted the respite that he might have time to investigate the facts and determine whether or not he should grant a commutation in either or both cases.

Aggie Myers and Frank Hottman were convicted of killing the Myers woman's husband in Kansas City two years ago.

Gov. Folk has refused to grant a commutation to Edward Bateman, sentenced to hang in Mount Vernon, Mo., June 29. Bateman, a negro, was convicted of assaulting a white woman in a hotel in Aurora, Mo.

BOY DROWNED IN RIVER DES PERES

Louis Donovan, 14 years old, of 8125 Pennsylvania avenue, was drowned in the River Des Peres Friday morning. The discovery was made at 11:40 o'clock and in a little more than one hour the police had recovered the youth's body.

Mike Tracy of 6006 North Market street and Theodore Robinson of 1452 Webster avenue, boys, were wandering along the bank of the river a few minutes before noon, and when they got 100 yards east of Broadway they found a boy's garments. These were taken to Policeman Fitzgerald of the Carondelet station, who instituted a search.

Residents in the vicinity assisted, and about 1 o'clock the body of the little fellow was dragged from the stream. He had gone in swimming and was unable to successfully battle with the swift current.

SERIOUSLY HURT, SHE SAVES BABY

Mrs. Amelia Custer was probably fatally hurt by a Suburban car Thursday morning, but she saved from injury a friend's baby she was carrying. She is 54 years old and lives at 810 North Twentieth street.

Mrs. Custer went out walking, taking the infant child of Mrs. Taylor, who lives at the same address, with her for an airing. They were crossing the tracks at Twenty-third and Wash streets when a car bore down upon them.

MRS. ARNOLD HELD FOR DEATH OF HER FRIEND

Coroner's Jury Finds That She Shot F. L. Phelps at Her Home.

SHE DENIES CONFESSION

Says She Lied When She Told Police She Was Guilty.

HUSBAND AGAINST HER

He Offers to Help in Proving Her Guilty by His Testimony.

Mrs. Bessie Reeves Arnold was held responsible by the Coroner's jury Friday for the death of Frank L. Phelps, whom she and her husband had befriended and given a home with them at 806 Market street. The verdict was reached after she had under oath denied that she had shot him to death.

Her denial was a contradiction of her confession to Chief of Detectives Desmond in which she described how she shot Phelps, told of a suicide pact between them and of writing a farewell to the world for Phelps in which he was made to say that his love for her drove him to seek death. She had told Desmond that she had intended to shoot herself, but her nerve failed when Phelps died.

Mrs. Arnold hung her head and did not look up for several minutes after she heard the verdict. She rested her head on her hand on the back of the chair. Her cigarette-stained fingers were in view. Her pallid, thin face and blue eyes showed the traces of the opium. She wore a cheap white shirtwaist with a black stripe—one she wore when she killed Phelps. She also had on the same black skirt.

Arnold, her husband, took the verdict differently. He jumped from his chair almost gleefully. He rushed over to Deputy Coroner Lloyd, who conducted the inquest, and declared:

"Doctor, if there is anything I can do to help you in this prosecution, just let me know; I'll be glad to help you."

"You will help to convict your wife of murder?" a bystander asked.

"I will help the State with my evidence."

The day before he said he would stand by his wife and protect her.

Nervous Before Police.

Just before the jury retired, Dr. Lloyd, addressing Mrs. Arnold, who sat in the prisoner's chair, said:

"Mrs. Arnold, do you want to make a statement?"

"Yes, sir," she said, "I want to tell just what happened. I want to be sworn."

The oath was administered.

"What is your name?" she was asked.

"Bettie Arnold. I live at 806 Market street. Yesterday in the Chief's office I was nervous and excited. I have been sick for five years. I didn't tell the truth there. He might have known I was not telling the truth. I did not look at him. I did not lift my eyes from the floor. I was lying nearly every word I said.

"The real truth is this: I was frying supper over the stove in the kitchen Wednesday night when I heard the shot in the back room and ran back and saw Frank was dying. I did not fire the shot. He killed himself.

"I wanted to tell this story to Chief Desmond, but he kept saying to tell the truth, kept saying it couldn't have happened that way. I was nervous and sick and wanted to get out of that room. I thought if I told him what he wanted me to tell I could get out quicker. That's why I lied to him—I wanted to get out.

"Why should I want to kill him? I clothed him, fed him, gave him money.

The other witnesses were William C. Arnold, the husband; William Kessler, grocer at 810 Market street; Patrick Corcoran, horseshoer, who employed Phelps; George Moore, employed by Corcoran; Policemen Helgoth and Kenney, Mrs. Lulu Langdon and Sergeant Hoffman.

W. C. Arnold said: "My wife's name is Bettie Reeves. She is from the mountains of Kentucky. She has no relatives in St. Louis. George Reeves, her brother, was here the year of the cyclone. I saw him alive three years ago. She never killed him and was never on trial for murder."

Arnold identified her handwriting in letters she had written him and said Phelps' farewell note was written by her.

"I fed and clothed this man, and thought everything was all right," he said. "I was listening to the graphophone. Mrs. Langdon was in our parlor when we heard a noise like a firecracker. The dog jumped up and looked out of the window. About three minutes later my wife came in yelling, 'Papa, papa, Frank has killed himself.' "I ran to Kessler's store and told him to telephone for an ambulance and the police. I didn't supose she had fired the shot."

Had Threatened Phelps.

George Moore repeated a conversation he had with Mrs. Arnold a year

"WILD GIRL" IS CAUGHT ASLEEP IN ALTON BARN

Girl Who Has Alarmed Farmers Taken Into Custody by the Police.

SHE REFUSES TO TALK

Says Her Name Is "Mollie McGuire," but Will Say Nothing More.

SEEMS TO BE DEMENTED

Will Tell Nothing About Herself—Is About Eighteen Years Old.

The "wild girl," who has been a cause of alarm to farmers and suburbanites northwest of Alton for 10 days, was captured Friday. She had been haunting the fields and woods and scaring children and the police had been asked to look for her.

Friday Chief of Police Maxwell, at Alton, received a telephone message that the girl had been seen to enter the barn in the rear of the residence of Mrs. Jermiah Springer. Entering the barn he found the girl asleep on a pile of corn husks.

When he roused her she leaped to her feet. She tried to escape through the door, but Maxwell barred the way and by much coaxing induced her to accompany him.

When she stepped into the light Maxwell saw a pale, gaunt girl, apparently 18 years old and 5 feet 6 inches tall. Her long light hair fell over her shoulders and her deep-sunk blue eyes seemed to be looking at some object far away.

Asked what her name was, she at first ignored the question, but when it was repeated she said: "Mollie Maguire."

This was her only answer to all questions. She could not or would not tell how long she had been roaming about in the woods or how she got there.

She Refuses to Talk.

Those who tried to get information from her believe that exposure and hardships have caused her mind to become unbalanced.

For at least 10 days and perhaps much longer she has lived the life of a hunted thing in the woods. So far as is known she has taken no food except such herbs or wild fruits and vegetables as she could gather.

The soles have been worn from her shoes and her brown calico dress is in shreds.

Matron De Muth at the Alton Police Headquarters has made every effort to induce the girl to talk about herself, but the only words she will utter are "Molly Maguire."

She is nervously overwrought and it is thought that a few days of rest will restore her mental faculties.

She did not attempt violence when captured. She is timid and apparently afraid of everyone who approaches her. Her thinness makes her appear taller than she really is. Her features are regular and she must have been beautiful before she took to the wild life in the open. Her luxuriant hair is golden and falls almost to her waist.

LOST HER HEART TO MAN WHO TAUGHT HER HOW TO TALK

MRS. STANLEY TEACHANT

LEARNED TO TALK AND WON HUSBAND

Miss Beulah Lyon Fell in Love With Man Who Cured Her Stammering.

MADE UP THEIR QUARREL

Fear of Another Disagreement Caused Groom to Hasten Wedding.

Love came to Miss Beulah Lyon while she was going through the trying ordeal of being cured of stammering. Gratitude for H. Stanley Teachout, who taught her to speak directly and without hesitation, grew into a stronger feeling as their acquaintance continued.

And thus it came about that the young woman was at home at 3553 Olive street Friday, as the wife of her former instructor. They were married at St. Charles Thursday afternoon. Teachout and his bride are 28 years old.

Three years ago Miss Lyon went to Teachout to learn how to speak without stuttering.

For a long time it was irksome work. Her teacher would stand before her waving his arm and counting time like a bandmaster, while she would imitate his movements and repeat the words which he pronounced.

Slowly they came into unison. She learned to talk without beating time, and there was no longer any need for her to call upon her teacher. But he called on her and his visits became more and more frequent as both began to realize that they were in love.

A quarrel three weeks ago hastened their marriage.

"We had a pretty warm spat," said Teachout to a Post-Dispatch reporter. "We made up all right, but it set me to thinking. I had come so near losing her because of that quarrel that I decided we had better get married before we had another disagreement.

"She was willing and we just took a nice little car ride to St. Charles and saw the license man and a Justice of the Peace."

"PEOPLE MUST OWN THEIR INDUSTRIES"

Judge Grosscup of Federal Court Scores Corporations' Practices.

HE AGREES WITH BRYAN

Equality of Opportunity in Business Must Not Be Destroyed.

OTTAWA, Kan., June 22.—Judge Peter S. Grosscup of Chicago, of the United States Court of Appeals, delivered an address here today at the Ottawa Chautauqua, dealing with corporations.

Judge Grosscup spoke of the great growth of corporations since the Civil War, declared that ownership of the country's industrial properties should be restored to the people, and as a step in this direction favored State as well as congressional aetion. He said that out of recent revelations of the manner of conducting certain corporations there had come a spirit of indiscriminate distrust, a spirit of criticism, "in too many cases a blind fury," that continues to "envelop our judgment as a fog blinds the eyes to intelligent study of some great building."

"The first thing to do," he said, "in the move to restore to the people their rights, is to dispel this fog, to see things in their right place and proportions.

"A constant duty, of course, is to see to it that the particular corporations that are breaking the law be made to obey the law. To the full extent that the national administration sincerely and intelligently is pursuing this duty, public opinion will remain behind it. But if the administration and the Republican leaders think that the disease will be reached and eradicated solely through continuous campaigns against this or that incorporated enterprise as if the corporation in itself, as the embodiment of modern enterprise, were some alien enemy—I entirely dissent from them.

"When Mr. Bryan denounces the particular corporations that by discrimination and favoritism succeed in suppressing competition, or that unjustly oppress the public, I agree with him. Every species of device that puts it within the power of an outside party to choose which of two or more competitors shall succeed and which shall fai', is a crime against that first principle of American business life—equality of opportunity. But when Mr. Bryan, as the already chosen leader of the Democratic party sees no further than this—when he confuses what, under a just corporation party, corporate enterprise could become, with the particular corporations that have abused their opportunities, I dissent again."

"The thing to do to raise up competition is to rehabilitate the corporation, to purify it, to restore to it character and responsibility, that the people may come back into the ownership of their country's industrial properties. For until that is done all opportunity for new enterprise will be in the hands of those who already have a monopoly of the field."

"The message that I have come to deliver," said Judge Grcsscup in closing, "is to urge the people of this State to take the lead in giving to the new industrial life of the Union an embodiment that instead of losing sight of, will again lift up to its rightful place in his country's prosperity the individual man.

PACKERS FINED $15,000 EACH FOR ACCEPTING REBATES

Burlington Railway Is Assessed $15,000 for Giving Rebates to the Big Four Packers by Judge McPherson in the United States Court.

ST. LOUIS MERCHANTS SHOULD BE PROSECUTED

Man Who Gave St. Louis and Kansas City Merchants Large Sums of Money in a Mysterious Manner Fined $6000 and Goes to Penitentiary for Four Months.

KANSAS CITY, Mo., June 22.—In the United States District Court here this morning Judge Smith McPherson of Red Oak, Io., passed sentence upon the five defendants recently convicted in this court of making concessions and accepting and conspiring to accept rebates on shipments. Fines of $15,000 each were assessed against the defendants—Swift & Co., Cudahy Packing Co., the Armour Packing Co., Nelson Morris & Co. and the Chicago, Burlington & Quincy Railway.

George L. Thomas of New York was fined $6000 and sentenced to four months in the Penitentiary. L. B. Taggart of New York was fined $4000 and sentenced to three months in the Penitentiary.

Appeals were filed in each case and a stay of execution was granted until June 29, until they can be perfected. The bonds in the case of Thomas and Taggart were fixed at $6000 each. These two men appeared in court personally and upon being sentenced promptly furnished the required bonds. The bonds in the case of the packing companies and the Burlington were fixed at $15,000 each. The fines in the seven cases aggregate $85,000.

Before sentence was passed in the various cases motions for new trials were made by John C. Cowan of Omaha and Frank Hagerman of Kansas City, for the packers, and by Judge O. M. Spencer of St. Joseph upon behalf of the Burlington Railroad and Thomas and Taggart. All these motions were overruled.

Merchants Are Guilty.

Judge McPherson said that he was fully persuaded that the verdicts in the packing house cases and the case of the Burlington are right, and he assessed the fines against all of said corporations at the same sum.

"These parties," he says, "were all together in this scheme with like motive and purpose."

In speaking of the Thomas and Taggart cases, Judge McPherson said that evidence had been adduced to show that George A. Barton for the firm of Barton Bros., wholesale shoe and leather dealers, had received large sums of money from various railways through the defendants.

"Not only so," continued the court, "but the following-named concerns received the sums stated from railways:

Barton Bros.	$ 8,220
Robert Keith Furniture Co., Kansas City	1,372
The Webb-Freyschlag Mercantile Co., Kansas City	9,300
Emery, Bird, Thayer Dry Goods Co., Kansas City	32,000
Burnham, Hanna, Munger Dry Goods Co., Kansas City	44,566
Hargadine-McKittrick Dry Goods Co., St. Louis	10,000
F. P. Kirkendall Shoe Co. of Omaha	1,000

"So that as nearly as can be gathered from the evidence, the defendants, after deducting for their own services from money received from railways, paid to the concerns named within four years, as rebates, the enormous sum of $82,469.11, and the evidence fairly shows there were other rebates paid by them.

"I assume all these concerns will be proceeded against for receiving these unlawful rebates, which can be done either by indictment or information as the last vestige of the plea of immunity for corporations has been wiped out by the decision of the Supreme Court of the United States of March 12, 1906, in the case of Hale vs. Henkle."

Judge Spencer on Immunity.

Judge O. M. Spencer of St. Joseph, general counselor of the Burlington Railway, and a son of the counsel for Thomas & Taggart, before sentence was pronounced made a presentation to the Court, in the course of which he said:

"Any anxiety I may feel lest too severe a punishment be imposed upon these defendants, does not grow out of any facts in evidence in the case, but rests on considerations entirely outside the record.

"There is now a disturbed condition of the public mind in general, and while Speaker Cannon, in his recent article, assures us that the country was never so prosperous as now, he might well have added with equal truth that the country never desired a change in its tone of prosperity so much as it does just now. For two weeks we have been trying cases in this honorable court, the magnitude and importance of which would have been common but for the worked-up condition of the public mind by reports of performances in Washington, such as the rate bill, the meat inspection bill and divers other subjects, including grafts, trusts and oil combines.

"The announcement is sent abroad by the Department of Justice at Washington that unless some one is sent to the Penitentiary this rebate practice will not stop.

"If the conspiracy statute applies to any one form of rebates and concessions, it likewise applies to all forms of rebates and concessions, and the court cannot be used to punish one wrong-doer in one way and another in a different way for the same offense.

"There have been three trials in this court this term, in which the defendants have been convicted of giving and receiving concessions and rebates. Are you going to fine some and imprison others?

"President Roosevelt and his special counsel split on the question of how the prosecution should be framed and against whom. Can the District Attorney justify his demand for greater punishment in the Thomas and Taggart case than he is asking in the packers', and in the Burlington cases? If so, on what grounds? Is it on the ground of larger sums of money? No. Or different crimes? No. For both were refunds on freights or concessions, and Your Honor has well said, during this trial, there is no real distinction. The crime is the same in substance, but the form of the indictment and the name of the crime is different in the one instance than in the other.

"There is no justice in pursuing these defendants while allowing the real offenders to escape. The escape of one criminal is no defense for the other; but is it not a mockery on justice for this great national Government to sit by and call one after another of these rich merchants, and allow them to clear their skirts of crime and prosecution, by telling how their own agent at their solicitation obtained money from the railroad for them? All this, too, by the consent and on terms named by the Government. There is but one case in all the books which equals it in the miscarriage of justice, and that is the old case in Massachusetts, where the negro man and white woman were tried for cohabiting, and the negro was convicted while the white woman was acquitted by the same court and jury."

The Cases Tried.

The indictments upon which the various defendants were tried were returned in Kansas City by the grand jury on Dec. 13, 1905. The cases have been handled for the government by A. S. Van Valkenburgh, the district attorney, and his assistant, Leslie Lyons, while the defendants have been represented by some of the best counsel in the West. Of the 11 cases brought up at this term the government has secured seven convictions, one defendant was acquitted and three cases were dismissed.

STRUCK GIRL WHO WALKED WITH ACTOR

Charles May Fined $25 for Hitting Young Woman in the Face.

Matinee Idol Says He Took the Count After the Third Blow.

DID NOT MEAN TO DO IT

Prisoner Says He Was Wrestling With Actor and Girl Got in Way.

Charles May of 8201 Virginia avenue, was fined $25 in the Wyoming Street Police Court Friday for striking Miss Mammie Betz of 504 West Poepping street when he met her walking on the street with Harry W. Stein, an Eclipse Garden actor.

Stein is something of a matinee idol at the garden at Primm street and Virginia avenue, Carondelet. He plays juvenile roles in the Stanley stock company, and he was considered handsome until he met May Thursday night.

Among those whose acquaintance he has made during his South St. Louis engagement is Miss Betz.

Strolling from the garden after the evening performance, he saw Miss Betz at the gate. He spoke to her and obtained permission to walk home with her.

On the witness stand Friday Stein said: "Miss Betz and I had walked only a short distance when May came up. He struck Miss Betz in the face. I interfered to protect the young woman and he struck me, knocking me down. I got up and he knocked me down again. The third time he hit me I stayed down. I didn't know and I had no idea why he should have interfered with us.

"Your Honor, I didn't mean to hit Mamie," said May. "This actor and I were just wrestling and she tried to take a hand in it and I hit her to make her get away."

That was as far as he got. Judge Kleiber ordered him from the stand and entered the fine against him.

Miss Betz says that May formerly lived next door to her, but that he never courted her and that so far as she knew he had no reason to be jealous of the actor. She testified that when May hit her he broke one of her teeth.

ALBRIGHT QUITS POLITICS.

Says He Will Stick to Making Living for Family.

On his return from Macon, where he was acquitted of the last boodle charges against him, T. Ed Albright announced his intention of having nothing more to do with politics.

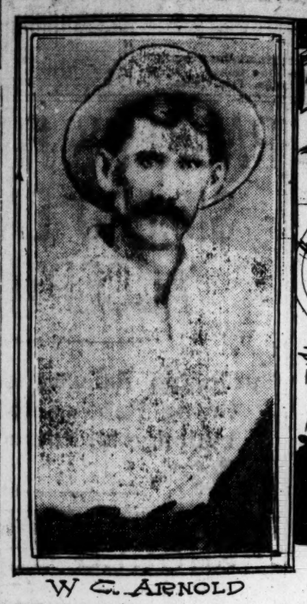

"I have no desire to re-enter politics," he said, "but will devote my time to my business and to making a living for my family. I have no criticism to offer against Mr. Folk or Mr. Sager. They were sworn to do their duty."

Mr. Albright and his family of seven arrived at their home, 4000 Russell avenue, Thursday night. He has been busy since receiving the congratulations of his friends on the result of his trial.

and a half ago, when she threatened to kill Phelps.

Patrick Corcoran said he loaned Mrs. Arnold $12 at Phelps' request two weeks ago. The money was used by Phelps and Mrs. Arnold on a fishing trip. He is still waiting for the $12, he said.

Mrs. Langdon gave a detailed narrative of the afternoon in Arnold's parlor prior to the shooting. There had been beer. She tasted, but could not drink it.

The Arnolds insisted she stay for supper. She heard a noise like a firecracker and looked out the window. Three minutes later, Mrs. Arnold came rushing in saying Frank had shot himself.

"When she came into the room after her husband had gone for the police," said Mrs. Langdon, "I saw great spots of blood on her waist. I told her about it. She looked horror stricken and hurried to another room and put a waist on over the blood-stained one."

"Was Mrs. Arnold on or about the bed while you sat in the house?" Mrs. Langdon was asked.

"Yes, she was about the bed most of the time."

"Did you see her reach under the pillow for the revolver?"

"No."

"Was Phelps any place about the bed so he could have got the revolver from under the pillow?"

"No, sir."

John Sheehan testified he had seen Phelps a short time before death. Phelps was bragging to Sheehan he did not have to work.

Mrs. Arnold's statement in which she admitted that she killed Phelps were obtained after hours of ceaseless "sweating" by Chief Desmond.

The note was dated May 29, three weeks ago, and when Mrs. Arnold finally admitted that she had written it she said Phelps dictated it to her at that time. Then came her admission to Chief Desmond that she had been on friendlier terms with Phelps than her husband ever suspected. Later she admitted that she shot Phelps, but said it was in self-defense.

"While I was at the cupboard getting some dishes," she said, "Frank called me into his room. As I approached the bed where he was lying he pulled a revolver and said, 'Now we are both going to die.' He snapped the trigger but it would not work. I knocked the revolver from his hand. We both grabbed for it and I got it. Then he threw himself upon the bed and I stepped back and shot him. I did it in self-defense."

Admitted Suicide Pact.

The story did not seem plausible to Chief Desmond and after closely questioning Mrs. Arnold he drew from her the statement that Phelps had frequently threatened to kill her and himself and on several occasions had dictated to her farewell notes which she afterward destroyed when Phelps failed to carry out his threat.

Later Mrs. Arnold made her third statement, in which she confessed that she and Phelps had entered into a suicide pact. She was to have killed him and then kill herself, she told Chief Desmond.

"He called me into his room," she said, "and asked, 'Are you ready?' I replied that I was. 'Then let her go,' he said. I had the revolver in my hand. He had been sitting on the edge of the bed, but when I said I was ready he lay down and turned his face to the wall, leaving the left side of his face exposed to me. I bent over him and kissed him. Then I fired at his face. The bullet killed him instantly. I wiped the blood from his mouth with my shirt waist and then lifting his head in my arms I kissed him again. Then I slipped a clean waist over the one that was stained with his blood and called my husband."

Examination of Mrs. Arnold's clothing after she had made this statement revealed the fact that she was still wearing the blood-stained shirt waist underneath the clean one.

Deputy Coroner Lloyd was present during the time Chief Desmond was questioning Mrs. Arnold.

An Orphan at an Early Age.

Bettie Reeves, as she was known before she became the common law wife of William Arnold, was born in Hibernia, Ky., 38 years ago. Her father, who was a prosperous farmer, and her mother both died when she was a child, and she was left to the care of an older sister, who was of a religious turn of mind. Bettie, when quite young, developed a fine singing voice and frequently took part in Sunday School entertainments. When she was only 15 years old she ran away from home and became a chorus girl, traveling about the country with an opera troupe.

At the age of 17 Bettie arrived in St. Louis. She was a beautiful girl, and this, together with her talent, made her quite popular in the circles in which she moved. She was a favorite at dances. She had quit the stage and had accepted a position in one of the large department stores. Nearly every evening she spent at dances.

At first she was modest in her tastes and lemonade was the strongest liquid refreshment she cared for. Gradually she cultivated a liking for beer, and in 1895, when she met and fell in love with Will Arnold, her habits as to sobriety would not be considered model. It was also a case of love at first sight with Arnold, and from the time of their first meeting they became sweethearts. At that time Bettie was living in Green Lea place. Soon after the couple moved to Penrose street, near Fair avenue.

Arnold was addicted to the use of opium. To keep stride with him Bettie began smoking cigarettes. At first she smoked only occasionally, just to be a "good fellow," but gradually the habit grew upon her, until finally she became so bad that she was not satisfied unless she was smoking. She says she smoked as many as 50 cigarettes a day.

Began Smoking Opium.

Cigarettes appeased her appetite until one day while her husband was at work she got a notion she would like to try his opium pipe. The effect of the drug delighted her, and from that day she became a slave to the habit.

It was not long before Bettie's rosy cheeks became sallow and sunken. Her blue eyes looked like lumps of coal. She lost interest in her household affairs and various forms of entertainment which she had formerly enjoyed. She quit singing. She forgot friends and everything—everything but the pipe.

The Arnolds moved about from place to place until finally they landed at 806 Market street.

During all these years Arnold maintained a position as bookkeeper for a coal company. Five months ago he decided to give up the opium habit if it was within his power to do so. He induced his wife to undergo treatment with him. They consulted an Eastern specialist, and since then have been taking a "cure."

Two years ago Arnold engaged Phelps, who was 50 years old and crippled, to look after a horse which he owned. Phelps was homeless, friendless and penniless. The Arnolds pitied him and gave him a home. They clothed him and fed him, in fact, treated him like a brother. Arnold looked upon Phelps as a grateful friend. Arnold sold his horse, but permitted Phelps to continue to live with him, as the "poor old man," as Arnold called him, was unable to work.

Phelps was a big man, weighing nearly 200 pounds, while Arnold was thin and delicate. Phelps would say, "I know it looks awful bad to see a little man like you going to work every day and a great big fellow like me loafing around the house all the time. I don't know how I'll ever be able to repay you for your kindness." Arnold would invariably reply, "Oh, that's allright; you're not able to work."

Arnold says he never had the slightest cause to suspect that there was anything more than friendship between his wife and Phelps. Mrs. Arnold says Phelps daily vowed his love for her.

a freight broker, and his chief clerk, L. B. Taggart, whose case was the first to be tried, were convicted of securing rebates from railways on shipments from New York to St. Louis and Kansas City dry goods concerns. At their trial several prominent merchants, who admitted having signed contracts with Thomas, testified to receiving at various times sums of money from mysterious sources. Many thousands of dollars were thus received and some of the witnesses admitted the likelihood of it having come from Thomas. The penalty provided is a fine of not less than $1000 nor more than $10,000, or imprisonment in the penitentiary for not more than two years, or both fine and imprisonment.

George H. Crosby, former assistant freight traffic manager of the Chicago, Burlington & Quincy road, who was charged with conspiring with Thomas and Taggart to pay concessions, was discharged by Judge McPherson. The Court sustained a demurrer, presented by O. M. Spencer of St. Joseph, general solicitor of the railway, who contended that no evidence had been presented to connect Crosby with the alleged conspiracy.

The Armour Packing Co., Swift & Co., Cudahy & Co. and the Nelson Morris Packing Co. were tried jointly and convicted on the charge of accepting concessions from the Burlington road in connection with connecting lines, on packing house products for export via New York.

The Burlington Railroad Co. was convicted on four counts of granting concessions to the packing companies of Armour, Swift, Cudahy and Nelson Morris. The penalty provided in the case of the packers and the Burlington involved a fine of from $1000 to $20,000 on each count, but not imprisonment.

The cases of the Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul and the Chicago & Alton Railroad companies, charged with offering concessions, and D. H. Kresky, a freight broker of Kansas City, charged with conspiracy to secure concessions from these railways, were dismissed upon the suggestion of District Attorney Van Valkenburgh, who stated that he believed the railroads had in this case been imposed upon. As the case against Kresky was predicated upon that against the railways, it was useless to try him.

In the case of the Chicago & Alton Railway Co. and J. N. Falthorn, its former vice-president, and F. A. Wann, its former assistant traffic manager, charged with having given concessions to the Schwarzchild & Sulzberger Packing Co., the defendants set up a plea of immunity upon the ground that some of their employes had testified before a Federal grand jury at Chicago concerning the same transactions, for which they later were indicted at Kansas City. Judge McPherson sustained the Government's demurrer to this plea, but continued the cases over till next fall, when the similar cases at Chicago possibly will have been disposed of.

GIRL DISAPPEARS WHEN MAN DOES

SEEN TOGETHER OFTEN

13-Year-Old Girl Had Been Sent Away Because of Attention.

Katherine Luette Mitchell, 13 years old and pretty, is mysteriously missing. She disappeared from the home of Mrs. Mary Brown, 3012A Olive street, last Monday about noon. Her mother, Mrs. Ellen Mitchell of 220 South Twelfth street, has asked the police to find her.

Incidentally, Edward Greenway, a widower, 31 years old, has not been seen about his home, 3026 Manchester avenue, since Katherine Mitchell disappeared. Before that time Greenway and Katherine were in each other's company daily, according to the girl's mother.

About a year ago the Mitchells and Greenways were neighbors. After Mrs. Greenway's death, which occurred 14 months ago, Katherine took a great liking for Mr. Greenway's 5-year-old son, Earl. The children played together and in that way Katherine became acquainted with Earl's father. A strong attachment sprang up, it is said, between Greenway and Katherine. They, with Earl, went out walking together frequently, and during the warm weather Greenway spent much of his spare time on the front steps of the Mitchell home with Katherine and her mother. They found a great deal of interest in each other's company.

The companionship between Greenway and Katherine continued until Mrs. Mitchell says she felt compelled to send her daughter with Mrs. Brown, who is a friend of the family. Mrs. Mitchell says she has since learned that Greenway found out where Katherine was staying and that he visited her almost daily. Mrs. Brown told Mrs. Mitchell that she saw Katherine in conversation with Greenway almost every day. Katherine would make every excuse, Mrs. Brown says, to get an opportunity to go to the back gate, where she would meet Greenway. She would tell Mrs. Brown that Greenway was the garbage man, the iceman or the milkman.

Last Sunday night Katherine visited her mother, who was still living a few doors from the Greenway home. Monday morning, shortly before noon, Mrs. Brown left her home for a few minutes. When she returned Katherine had gone. The girl had donned her best clothes, leaving her old ones behind, and had disappeared, without leaving any word as to where she had gone.

Mrs. Brown waited all day Monday for Katherine to return, and when she failed to put in an appearance, Mrs. Brown notified Mrs. Mitchell. The latter made inquiries and learned that Greenway also left home about noon Monday.

Thursday Mrs. Mitchell moved to the Twelfth street address. She reported the disappearance of her daughter to the police only after she had searched in various parts of St. Louis for some trace of the missing girl.

SENATE SENDS SYMPATHY TO RUSSIAN JEWS

WASHINGTON, June 22.—The Senate today adopted the following joint resolution:

"Resolved, That the people of the United States are horrified by the reports of the massacre of Hebrews in Russia on account of their race and religion, and that those bereaved thereby have the hearty sympathy of the people of this country."

The resolution was introduced by Senator McLaurin of Mississippi, who asked immediate consideration. Senator Lodge asked for time to examine the document, and, after doing so, he announced his approval. The resolution was then adopted without debate.

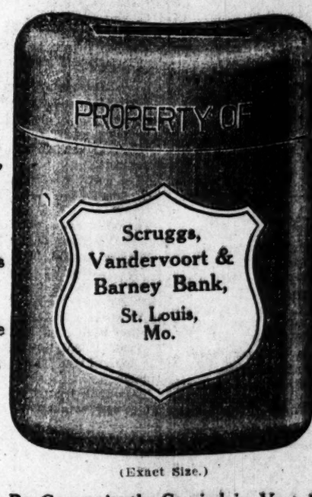

As it is a joint resolution it will be necessary for it to be acted on by the House and signed by the President to be a complete executive act.

A HEALTHY OLD AGE

OFTEN THE BEST PART OF LIFE

Help for Women Passing Through Change of Life.

Providence has allotted us each at least seventy years in which to fulfill our mission in life, and it is generally our own fault if we die prematurely.

Mrs. Mary Koehne

Nervous exhaustion invites disease. This statement is the positive truth.

When everything becomes a burden and you cannot walk a few blocks without excessive fatigue, and you break out into perspiration easily, and your face flushes, and you grow excited and shaky at the least provocation, and you cannot bear to be crossed in anything, you are in danger; your nerves have given out; you need building up at once! To build up woman's nervous system and during the period of change of life we know of no better medicine than Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. Here is an illustration. Mrs. Mary L. Koehne, 371 Garfield Avenue, Chicago, Ill., writes:

"I have used Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound for years in my family and it never disappoints; so when I felt that I was nearing the change of life I commenced treatment with it. I took in all about six bottles and it did me a great deal of good. It stopped my dizzy spells, pains in my back and the headaches with which I had suffered for months before taking the Compound. I feel that if it had not been for this great medicine for women that I should not have been alive today. It is splendid for women, old or young, and will surely cure all female disorders."

Mrs. Pinkham, daughter-in-law of Lydia E. Pinkham, of Lynn, Mass., invites all sick and ailing women to write her for advice. Her great experience is at their service, free of cost.

HAAKON IS CROWNED AS NORSE KING

Ceremony in Trondjhem Cathedral, Norway's Architectural Monument.

CORONATION OF QUEEN

Investiture of Maud, Wife of Haakon, Follows the Principal Event.

MANY AMERICANS THERE

Mr. and Mrs. Bryan in Party of American Minister to St. Petersburg.

TRONDJHEM, Norway, June 22.—Haakon, the first separate King that Norway has had for 600 years, was crowned at 12:15 this afternoon in the great cathedral here.

Coronation day opened with a glowing but cold sun shining. In the early morning splatters of rain fell and a chill wind came off the Fiord, making it necessary to wear overcoats and winter clothing. The normal temperature in the cathedral previous to the ceremony was under 50 degrees, and it was feared that many of those present would carry away a painful and lasting reminder of the coronation of King Haakon and Queen Maud, although the Norwegian Court relaxed the rules governing dress.

The city was alive at an early hour, and by 8 o'clock the avenues leading to the cathedral were filled with struggling lines of people making for the choicest points of vantage from which to see the members of the royal family and the distinguished guests enter the cathedral.

The doors of the latter were opened at 10 a. m., and soon afterward three bishops, robed in black and white, drove up in a basket phaeton. The crowd uncovered as the bishops entered the cathedral.

The cathedral filled rapidly. By 10:25 a. m. the majority of the spectators had arrived and were seated, the women in elegant costumes and many of the men in bright uniforms and wearing orders. The effect was imposing in spite of the half light in the interior of the old cathedral. Long rows of seats extended along the entire both sides of the building, rising tier upon tier. The center of the nave was unoccupied except by the throne seats an da few chairs back of the columns. A red carpet was stretched down the aisles and the center of both transepts.

The arrival of the bishops was followed by the appearance of a number of other priests, all robed in white. They entered the north sanctuary at 10:30 and formed a semi-circle about the altar and, with bent heads, offered up prayers for the King and Queen. Their entrance silenced the crowd.

In the meantime lines of soldiers and sailors formed a lane from a specially constructed landing place past the palace to the cathedral entrance.

Bryan Among Americans.

The royal and special embassies soon afterward began to arrive. Among the first was the special American envoy, Charles H. Graves, Minister to Sweden, and Mrs. Graves; Lieutenant-Commander John H. Gibbons, the naval attache of the United States at London, and Mrs. Gibbons, and Maj. William W. Gibson, American military attache at St. Petersburg, who was accompanied by Mr. and Mrs. William J. Bryan. The crowd watched the party with great interest.

The visiting princes and princesses were cheered as they drove along the lane of the troops, and a band stationed opposite the canopied portal of the cathedral played the national anthem of each country as its embassy arrived and at the same time the troops presented arms.

The Prince and Princess of Wales entered at 10:55, and their party was still in the street when peals of bells from the city churches announced that King Haakon was preparing to leave the palace. By this time the dense crowds walled behind the line of troops extended from below the palace into the intersecting streets and to the cathedral, where near the entrance stood the stand erected for the more fortunate of the public.

Faced the Cameras.

The King and Queen, after a brief delay in arranging the carriages and cavalry escort, started for the cathedral, preceded by their suites. A great cheer announced the departure of the royal party. The King and Queen, who rode in a closed coach, both wore ermine robes and were bareheaded. They seemed grave as they drove toward the cathedral. The King, however, smiled and saluted in reply to the salutations of the people.

When approaching the cathedral, their majesties faced half a dozen photographic machines and a score of cameras. The procession moved slowly. Handkerchiefs and flags were waved, but the crowd seemingly was impressed by the coming religious ceremony and the people generally were silent. Occasionally, however, there was an outbreak of cheers.

The royal coach, drawn by four handsome bays led by footmen, reached the cathedral at 11:10 a. m., where the King and Queen were received by the clergy.

When the royal party entered all present in the cathedral at once arose and the ceremonial began immediately.

Coronation Ceremonies.

The coronation ceremonies, which were very elaborate, were conducted by the Bishop of Trondhjem, assisted by the leading Cabinet Ministers and the Chief Justice of the Supreme Court.

After the annointing of the King by the bishop, the latter and Prime Minister Michilsen jointly placed the crown on his head, after which Foreign Minister Loevland and the bishop jointly handed him the scepter.

After a prayer offered by the bishop the latter and Interior Minister Arcander conjointly handed the King the orb, and later the War Minister, Olsson, and the bishop handed the sword of state to His Majesty. These ceremonies were followed by the benediction.

The King, having taken his seat on the throne, the Queen was crowned by the same high personages and in a similar manner. The ceremony throughout was impressive. When the newly crowned sovereigns returned to their thrones, after the episcopal benediction, all the royal guests and special ambassadors saluted them with deep reverence.

At the termination of the proceedings the President of the Storthing called out, "God Save the King and Queen," and the whole distinguished company heartily took up the cry. Grouped around the King's throne during the ceremony were the Crown Prince and Crown Princess Christian of Denmark, Prince Harold of Denmark and Prince Henry of Prussia, while about the Queen's throne were the Prince and Princess of Wales, Princess Victoria of England and Grand Duke Michael of Russia.

The completion of the crowning of King Haakon was communicated by two army signalers, wigwagging across the city from the cathedral to the hill batteries. The first gun announced the tidings boomed forth instantly and then there was a roar of guns from the ships and land batteries and the bells of all the city churches began ringing. These sounds carried the tidings over the city and harbor and the echoes were carried up and down the fjord.

Who Haakon Is.

Norway has been ruled by the King of Sweden ever since the allies in 1814 punished Denmark for its allegiance to Napoleon by taking Norway from Denmark. Against this union Norway rebelled a few months ago, a bloodless revolution resulted, Sweden refraining from opposition to Norway's secession. Norway selected as its King Prince Charles of Denmark, second son of the Crown Prince of Denmark, who took the name Haakon VII after his selection. Queen Maud, wife of King Haakon VII, is third daughter of King Edward of England.

Why Trondjham.

Trondhjem, the ancient capital of the kings of Norway, may be called the cradle of the Norse nation.

Haakon the Good was crowned there in 935 amid the joyful acclamations of the people, who had successfully rebelled against the cruel tyranny of Erik Blood-Ax and his despotic wife, Queen, Gunhild.

Since then all the Kings of Norway, of whatever nationality they might be, have had to travel to this far-away city for the ceremony of investiture. The King Haakon of today owes his name to the first good King of a united and independent Norway, and the little Crown Prince becomes the namesake of his first legitimate successor, the great Olaf Tryggvesson, who was crowned in 995. Up to that time Trondhjem was less a national capital than the mere stronghold of an important province, but in 996 Olaf Tryggvesson laid the foundation of the present city, which he then called Nidaros.

FREE BRIDGE BILL BREAKS RECORDS

WASHINGTON, June 22.—The passage of the free bridge bill by the Senate yesterday comes close to making a new legislative record. The measure was introduced June 14, two days after the election authorizing its construction. Congress finished it a week late, June 21. The House late yesterday evening agreed to the eminent domain amendment added to the bill in the Senate. President Roosevelt will probably sign the bill today, making it a law.

Judge Decides Mrs. Fuller Was Not Aggrieved.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

CARTHAGE, Mo., June 22.—Judge Howard Gray of the Circuit Court refused this morning to grant a divorce to Mrs. Alice Fuller against her husband, A. Roy Fuller of Joplin. The suit was the outgrowth of a sensational escapade of Mrs. Fuller and Bud M. Robinson last fall, which attracted so much attention.

Mrs. Fuller is a beautiful woman and both families are wealthy and prominent socially.

After the rupture, according to Mrs. Fuller's admissions, she and Robinson went to Chicago, where they stayed for some time, finally returning to Joplin. A suit is now pending in which A. Roy Fuller asks $50,000 damages for the alienation of Mrs. Fuller's affections. Judge Gray delivered a scathing arraignment of the woman and declared she was not the aggrieved party.

A CREDIT SYSTEM

Whose Influence for Good Is Felt Everywhere

The great volume of retail business in this city is done on credit. It has been brought about by the merchants themselves, who realize that it is demanded by the condition of the masses. This house advances credit not because the people demand it, but voluntarily and because it considers it is the people's right. It isn't that we can make more money on such a basis, because, as a matter of fact, our credit prices are lower than those of cash houses. It is because such a system brings us closer to the people—brings the people closer to us—helps to establish homes easily which the all-cash system practically prohibits. It gives us a wider acquaintance—a greater volume of trade—and makes our influence for good felt and appreciated in all directions. We have had countless young people come to us and base the fixing of their wedding day on our definite promise to prepare homes for them on a basis that will accord with their monthly income.

Everything good is claimed for every cigar introduced to smokers, but only a few prove.

The "Anna Held" is one of the few. There are substantial reasons for its superiority over cigars produced by ordinary methods. Every fibre of tobacco in every "Anna Held" is grown and harvested under the supervision of experts, who carefully select only the choicest leaf.

The tobacco is then graded in closely-defined qualities and for two years undergoes refining processes of curing, ripening and fermenting which extract all the original harshness, and develop to perfection the natural aromatic fragrance.

ANNA HELD

CIGAR—5 CENTS

The characteristic good qualities of each required variety of leaf are actually combined in a rich, well-balanced, uniform flavor through special processes which required the construction of immense, scientifically-appointed "stemmeries"—processes exclusive with the American Cigar Company.

In the American Cigar Company's brands you thus get fully-ripened, well-matured, actually blended tobacco of absolutely uniform flavor—a rich, full, delicately smooth smoke which is impossible under ordinary methods.

If you want direct and personal proof of the exceotional smoking qualities developed through the employment of these methods, spend five cents anywhere for "Anna Held."

News of the formation reached Seward from Unalaska, being carried to the latter port by Bering Sea fishermen. A quantity of rock was thrown up with the earth, forming several acres of headland. Fishermen reported the water so hot they were unable to get near the island.

CHOIR SINGER SLAYER DIES ON GALLOWS

Illinois Board of Pardons Vetoed Richard Ivens' Appeal for Respite.

EXECUTION AT CHICAGO

Crime Among Most Brutal in State's History, Board Declares.

CHICAGO, June 22.—Richard Ivens, murderer of Mrs. Bessie Hollister, the choir singer, was hanged here at 11:08 o'clock this morning.

The condemned man, until he stood on the drop, faced death in the same stolid manner in which he has conducted himself since his arrest. When he stepped on the scaffold, however, much of his courage failed him. Just before the cap was drawn over his face he attempted to utter a prayer, but, although his lips moved convulsively, his voice would not respond and he was not able to utter a sound.

It was evident that he was on the verge of a complete collapse and the Sheriff hastened the last details as much as possible.

Just prior to the execution the aged father of Ivens called at the Jail and asked to see his son for the last time. His request was refused by the guards, and the father made a scene as he begged with tears to be allowed to see the young man once more. It was finally found necessary to lead him from the building. An aged woman, who made her appearance at about the same time, insisted that the condemned man was about to be hanged unjustly, as her own son had confessed to her that he and not Ivens was the actual criminal. She was detained pending an inquiry into her sanity.

The Crime.

Mrs. Hollister was the wife of Franklin C. Hollister, the head of the large printing establishment of Hollister Brothers. The crime, which was committed on the evening of Jan. 13 of this years, was one of the most revolting in the police history of Chicago.

Mrs. Hollister, who was a handsome woman and prominent in church and social circles on the north side of the city, left her home on the morning of Jan. 12 with the intention of carrying some flowers to the funeral of a friend. She purchased the flowers and performed several errands in the vicinity of her home, but did not appear at the funeral, nor was she again seen alive by any of her friends.

On the morning of Jan. 13 Richard Ivens, who lived at 1055 North Halsted street, told his father that the body of a woman was lying on a pile of refuse in the rear of their barn. Mr. Ivens at once informed the police and the body, which was identified as that of Mrs. Hollister, was taken to her home.

Her clothing was torn and disarranged and she evidently had made a desperate fight. Around her neck was twisted a slender copper wire. She had evidently been strangled to death after being maltreated in the most revolting manner.

The conduct of Ivens aroused the suspicions of the police and he was taken into custody and charged with the crime. He at first denied his guilt, but within three hours of his arrest made a full confession to the officers. This confession he later repeated at the inquest in the presence of the Coroner and on another occasion to the State's Attorney. He went into the shocking details of the crime in a cold-blooded fashion that aroused intense popular indignation.

When arraigned for trial, Ivens denied his guilt and claimed that he had been forced to confess by the police. His defense was an alibi and the claim that he had made the confessions under hypnotic suggestion.

Application to the Supreme Court for a stay of proceedings and to the Governor and the Board of Pardons was in vain, and his sentence was carried into effect on the date originally set by the jury at the conclusion of his trial.

STATE BOARD REFUSED TO GRANT A RESPITE.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

SPRINGFIELD, Ill., June 22.—At 9 o'clock last night the State Board of Pardons denied Ivens' application for a reprieve, and with the announcement of the Pardon Board's action the condemned man's last hope died. It was his last resort. The report of the Board of Pardons was made to Gov. Dineen, recommending a denial of the petition for a short stay of execution, and was approved by the executive.

All day yesterday the members of the Pardon Board listened patiently to the appeal of Ivens' counsel, Attorney Foltz, for a reprieve in order that the case might be heard more fully in the Illinois Supreme Court and from there be appealed to the United States Supreme Court on a constitutional issue. Throughout the day Gov. Deneen sat with the members of the board listening intently to the argument for a stay of execution. It was after 6 o'clock when the case finally was taken under advisement, and the announcement made that a decision would be reached later in the evening.

Large Concerns Must Force Their Sales.

"It's an ill wind that blows no one good," is a condition that is being quite forcibly demonstrated these days in St. Louis. BIG IRRIGATION DITCH.

Ceremonies Attend Opening of New Hawaiian Enterprise.

HONOLULU, June 15, via San Francisco, June 22.—The Kohala ditch, the biggest irrigation enterprise of the kind here, was opened last Monday with ceremonies, in which Secretary Atkinson, lately acting Governor, took part.

The ditch at present runs 14 miles, of which nine are mountain tunneling, and it will eventually be 21 miles long and will supply seventy million gallons of water per day to numerous plantations and to large areas of land which are now uncultivated because of the lack of water. The ditch as far as at present constructed cost $500,000.

Secretary Atkinson quoted a letter from President Roosevelt, written while Atkinson was Governor, in which the latter pledges his support to efforts to secure immigrants who will settle the lands of Hawaii.

SAWDUST IN COFFEE; "LAMP BLACK" GIVES PEPPER ITS COLOR

Representative Mann, Champion of the Pure Food Bill, Brings Grocery Store Into Congress and Takes Members' Appetites With His Cheerful Exposure of Adulterations.

By Wire From the Washington Bureau of the Post-Dispatch.

WASHINGTON, June 22.—Representative Mann of Chicago needed a big, round stove, a few whittlers and a pile of shavings to complete the House's resemblance to a crossroads grocery when he spoke on the pure food bill.

Groceries, canned goods, catsup, pickles, jellies and every known brand of breakfast food were there. So, too, were the gaily colored samples of silk, some of them a yard square, which had been colored by aniline dyes extracted from beautiful red Maraschino cherries, French peas, apple jelly and other kinds of "pure" foods. Corkscrews, canopeners, scales, tin funnels and patent medicines were mixed indiscriminately.

The red cherries, honey that never saw a beehive, olive oil raised in the cotton fields of the South, together with a dozen or more bottles of whisky of various degrees of goodness and badness, were pushed to the front on a big table, while in the middle were the scales, weights and brass measures from a gill to a gallon.

Members could not resist the display Mr. Mann made, and there was a rush made on it which can only be likened to a charge on a department store bargain counter.

Whether it was because Mr. Mann had placed the whisky bottles well toward the front or the dryness and saltiness of the air cannot be explained, but every member who could get within reaching distance grabbed a bottle of whisky or wine. Bottles of vinegar and catsup were ignored entirely.

There was much fingering of the packages of breakfast foods and other things, but as all had tags on them telling of the kinds of adulterants which had been used, there was little tasting of them. Representative Grosvenor, after nervously fingering a box of crackers, did take one, and when Mr. Mann was not looking began munching it. Although the cracker was not labeled, Gen. Grosvenor ate it very much as though he believed it was loaded.

In the course of his speech Mr. Mann said: "I will show you that medicines now advertised as a cure for the opium habit contain enough opium to cause the user of it to contract the habit."

Representative Crumpacker of Indiana interrupted to suggest that Mr. Mann should not give the name of the preparation, as it was only advertising it and would cause people to buy it.

"There have been many suggestions of that sort," Mr. Mann said, "but we are not trying to keep the person who wants opium from buying it. What we are trying to do is to prevent the man who never took opium from taking it without knowing it."

Food Adulteration.

Mr. Mann then read a number of letters from various firms in the country advertising various ways of adulterating foods.

"Here," said Mr. Mann, "is one calling attention to a trade name for pepper deteriorator. This deteriorator is advertised for sale at $20 a ton, in five-ton lots. It is to be fixed with cornmeal and a certain dye and you have black pepper."

"Look out, it will make you sneeze," suggested Representative Boutelle of Illinois, who was sitting across the aisle, as Mr. Mann poured the stuff out in his hand and let it trickle through his fingers down on his desk.

"That stuff won't make anybody sneeze," Mr. Mann said. "It is nothing but cornmeal. The firm selling it in its letter frankly admits that it can be used for cinnamon, cloves, alspice and other spices, differing only in the formula.

"Many of you may have wondered why it is that black pepper don't taste the same as it did in your boyhood and that even when you grind it yourself it has not the right taste. I'll tell you the reason why. If you buy it already ground it is mixed with cornmeal, and if you buy the pepper berries themselves they are nothing more or less than tapioca colored with lampblack."

Mr. Mann said that only 13,000,000 pounds of Mocha and Java coffee were imported into the United States during the past year, yet 250,000,000 pounds of Mocha and Java coffee had been sold at a price twice as high as could have been obtained for it had it been sold under its true nature. Most of the coffee sold as Mocha and Java, he said, was Brazilian coffee, while the rest of it was chicory, bread and sawdust.

"This," said Mr. Mann, holding a bottle of Maraschino cherries high above his head, "is a bottle of cherries. They were picked green in order that they might be firm. The green color was extracted by the use of acid and after they were thoroughly bleached they were put in aniline dye.

"I don't know whether this bottle full of cherries would kill a person if eaten all at once, but I am informed that the usual custom is to eat them one at a time."

This reference to the cherry in the cocktail greatly excited the House.

"Pure Olive Oil."

He next showed the House a can of pure olive oil and then three others put up in cans the exact fac-simile of the one containing the pure oil. Of these three, two contained cottonseed oil and the third ordinary machine oil. All were sold at the same price as the pure oil and each of them weighed less than the can containing the pure olive oil.

"This can," he said, holding up the one containing the machinery oil, "was taken from the Union League Club of Philadelphia, where the members enjoyed its contents as a salad dressing."

Mr. Mann called attention to various preservatives which had been advertised and which, he said, contained sulphate of soda and coal tar dyes.

"This is a bottle of beautiful amber-colored honey," Mr. Mann said, exhibiting a bottle, "and inside of it, as an evidence of good faith, is a bee. This honey was not made by a bee, and never saw a bee hive. It is made entirely of glucose and the bee was inserted as a guarantee of its purity."

Taking up canned goods, Mr. Mann said that because of the varying sizes of cans the people were swindled. He said that under the bill, the packers would be obliged to state the quantity or measure on the can or use cans made standard by rules and regulations of the Secretary of Agriculture. Although the dozens of cans he exhibited all looked to be the same size, they differed in weight from four to ten ounces.

"These cans are supposedly three-pound cans, yet the heaviest I have found weighs but two pounds ten ounces, gross," said Mr. Mann.

He insisted that short-weight cans were made by manufacturers for the deliberate purpose of misleading the public. These short-weight cans, he said, are sold by department stores and mail-order houses. He next took up breakfast foods, which are sold by the package and showed that although of a uniform size, one weighed but three-fourths of a pound, box and all, while the other weighed two pounds.

He next opened a bottle of vinegar, which the House thought was whisky and which it applauded.

"It was sold for a quart," Mr. Mann said, and taking out the cork, poured it into a measure. He showed that it was almost half a pint short of the measure.

He insisted that people had a right to know what quantity, either in measure or weight, they were buying, and made an eloquent plea for the adoption of the bill.

Although repeatedly requested to go on, Mr. Mann, after speaking two hours, said he would not longer delay the House.

The Democrats, while opposing the bill in the House, are doing so in the hope that they may be able to make amendments to it which they believe will improve it. They will vote for the bill on its final passage. Apparently there is little opposition to the bill.

BIG DECREASE IN MEAT EXPORTATION.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

WASHINGTON, June 22.—The recent statement of the Chicago packers that the agitation against the condition of their plants and their methods of preparing meat products has greatly damaged their foreign trade, is fully borne out by the official statistics compiled by the Department of Commerce and Labor. In January, before the revelations had gained very wide publicity, the exportation of canned beef showed an increase of 2,000,000 over those in the corresponding month of last year.

In February the effects of publicity first began to be felt abroad and the department's figures show a falling off in canned beef exports of 300,000 pounds as compared with February, 1905. In the next month, apparently, the disclosures made by Upton Sinclair had reached wide publicity abroad and were accepted largely as facts, for the figures show a decrease to less than one-half of the exports in March, 1905. The canned beef sent abroad in that month amounted to 11,574,440 pounds and in March of this year only 4,643,446 pounds. In cash this month alone represents a loss to the packers of $1,000,000.

April's figures show a decrease from March of 500,000 pounds. In May (the figures compiled to date show only about 90 per cent of May's total exports) there was a decrease of 450,000 pounds, as compared with the same month last year.

While the agitation against the packers has affected canned beef particularly, the exportations of fresh beef in both April and May also show slight decreases.

ELEVATOR KILLS BANKER.

W. B. Shoemaker Dies Because of Accidental Injuries.

NEW YORK, June 22.—William B. Shoemaker of this city, a member of the banking firm of Shoemaker & Bates, died last night in the Hudson Street Hospital from injuries received yesterday in the elevator of the building where the firm has its office.

Mr. Shoemaker was stepping from the car at the fourth floor when it suddenly dropped. His leg was caught between the wall of the shaft and the side of the elevator and he was so severely injured that he died at midnight.

Mr. Shoemaker was the son of Henry F. Shoemaker, who was for many years chairman of the Cincinnati, Hamilton & Dayton Railroad. His mother was the daughter of Col. James W. Quiggle of Philadelphia, at one time American Minister to Belgium. He was 26 years old.

The Toric Lens

AS illustrated, are ground so deep that the outer edge is the same distance from the eye as the center; the field of vision is enlarged, and there is no blurring or distortion when the eye is turned. It can be worn closer to the eye, which gives a much neater appearance.

A BLOODLESS GIRL

CURED OF ANEMIA BY DR. WILLIAMS' PINK PILLS.

Miss Hathaway Says These Pills Saved Her Life and She Recommends Them to Others.

Doctors have given the Greek name Anemia, meaning "bloodlessness," to a disease which is much more prevalent among young women than is generally believed. An unusual feeling of fatigue after slight exercise, breathlessness and pallor are the first noticeable signs. The disease literally causes the blood to turn to water and, unless a proper remedy is used, is inevitably fatal.

Miss Frankie Hathaway of 214 West Main street, Kalamazoo, Mich., says "When I was sixteen years old I was taken quite ill, so ill that the family doctor was called to attend me. I was pale and weak and did not gain under his care. Other treatment brought no better result and by the time I was nineteen years old I was so weak that I could not walk across the floor. I was terribly emaciated and my skin had lost all color. The doctor said I had anemia.

"One of my friends advised me to try Dr. Williams' Pink Pills as she had been cured of a somewhat similar trouble by their use. I bought a package and soon found that they were doing me good. My appetite increased and the healthy color began to show in my cheeks and lips. I continued to use the pills until I was permanently cured.

"Since then I have never had any return of my old trouble and cannot remember a time when I was so strong and healthy as now. Dr. Williams' Pink Pills saved my life and I believe that no other medicine could have done so.

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills cure anemia just as food cures hunger. They do not act on the bowels, but they actually make new blood. Most common diseases are caused by bad blood and Dr. Williams' Pink Pills by supplying the elements necessary to give new life and richness to the blood have cured even such diseases as locomotor ataxia, partial paralysis, St. Vitus' dance, sciatica, neuralgia, rheumatism, nervous headaches, the after-effects of the grip, palpitation of the heart, pale and sallow complexions and many forms of weakness in male and female. Dr. Williams' Pink Pills are sold by all druggists or will be sent, postpaid, on receipt of price, 50 cents a box, six boxes $2.50, by the Dr. Williams Medicine Co., Schenectady, N. Y.

SHOWS BIG INCREASES

Cheap Sites, Cheap Fuel, River Front and Railroads Available.

The St. Louis Business Men's League has issued a comprehensive little pamphlet entitled "The Reasons Why It Pays to Manufacture in St. Louis," which shows the remarkable development of the various industries of the Mississippi Valley metropolis in the last few years, and tells why they should be further increased in number, business and capacity.

The pamphlet was prepared by Secretary W. Flewellyn Saunders and W. V. Byars, and they explain St. Louis' superior qualifications as a manufacturing city in a nutshell—cheap fuel, cheap sites, great sale territory and fine freight facilities.

In the 10 years between 1890 and 1900, St. Louis gained only $4,000,000 in the value of manufacturing output, but between 1900 and 1905, five years, it gained $73,337,719, or 37.8 per cent. During 1905 the total value of products was $267,004,314, making this the fourth manufacturing city of the United States.

During the last three years, 1903, 1904 and 1905, a total of 259 factories, with an operating capital of $36,196,900, were added to the city, and during 1905 51 new mercantile establishments, with an operating capital of $11,083,000 began business here. There is a great demand on St. Louis for manufactures of its own in every line.

Plenty of Sites Available.

A great amount of territory is unoccupied as a result of the rapid movement of the residence section westward, and gives a wide range of choice for manufacturing sites. St. Louis has 19 miles of river frontage, its whole length being paralleled by railroad tracks, and the entire circumference of the city is inclosed by the Belt Railroad, to give terminal connections with the 26 great railroads which enter the city.

Building material is cheap, and fuel costs less in St. Louis than in any other large city.

St. Louis is in direct connection by waterway with the territory of the Upper and Lower Mississippi, Illinois, Missouri, Ohio, Tennessee and Cumberland rivers, these alone, excluding other navigable rivers, such as the Arkansas, giving the city a river mileage of 5815 miles actually in service in the last year.

The combined deposits of the banks and trust companies, the banks making their statement Feb. 8, 1906, and the trust concerns Nov. 9, 1905, amount to $268,480,084.40. The surplus and profits on the same dates were $47,444,076.57, and the capital was $37,050,000. The bank clearings for 1905, amounting to $2,899,798,879, showed an increase of 3.8 per cent over the preceding year.

The 30,000,000 people within a radius of 500 miles of St. Louis are chiefly buyers of manufactured goods and producers of food stuffs and raw materials for manufactures, making this city an ideal home market for manufactured goods, offering the largest local demand with the least local competition and the largest supply of food stuffs and raw material.

In 1905 there was an increase in building operations of 65 per cent over 1904, showing a remarkable growth since the World's Fair. There is an excellent electric railway system, a single fare with free transfers carrying a passenger the length and breadth of the city.

These are a few of the reasons in the Business Men's League pamphlet telling why manufacturers should study St. Louis before they establish their industries elsewhere.

CAULFIELD FOR CONGRESS

Former Candidate Willing to Run in Eleventh.

Politicians anticipate that Henry S. Caulfield will be named as the Republican candidate for Congress in the Eleventh District at the convention to be held at Northwest Turn and Liederkranz Hall Saturday morning. The tangle between candidates following Judge Sidener's charges of bribery gave rise to a demand for a new candidate, and Mr. Caulfield, who ran two years ago, consented to make the race again.

The announcement of Congressman Hunt that he considers entering the contest as an independent candidate, in opposition to the regular Democratic nominee, who will probably be George Neville, has made the Republican leaders hopeful.

Primaries for the nomination of delegates to Saturday's convention will continue from 1 to 8 p. m. Friday.

BOY OVERFED ON CANDY.

Wife Asks Court to Keep Husband Away.

Alleging that her divorced husband feeds their 6-year-old son too much candy, frequently causing him to be sick, Mrs. Emma B. Mueller has filed an application in the Clayton Circuit Court for a modified decree preventing him from seeing the child again.

In the divorce decree, granted May 15, Judge McElhinney ordered that Mueller be allowed to see the boy twice each month. Mrs. Mueller charges that her former husband has threatened to abduct the child.

HE DESIRED TO STAY.

Peculiar Diagnosis of Man Discharged From Hospital.

"A chronic desire for some place to stay" is entered on the City Hospital books as the diagnosis of the case of J. R. Brandon, who, after being in that institution for six years, was dismissed as cured Friday. Hospital physicians say that no case has ever before in their knowledge been entered in such a way on the hospital books.

Brandon was taken to the hospital six years ago, suffering from a severe case of locomotor ataxia. When he was able to work, he was placed in charge of the patients' dining room. Thursday, after he had had some difficulty with another patient employe, he was ordered discharged. It is a rule of the hospital that no patient can be discharged from the institution without a history of his case. It was found that the history of Brandon's case had been lost and he was entered on the books anew.

BUSCH PARTISANS CAPTURE MEETING

Dr. Siebert Angrily Seizes His Hat When Bill's Supporters Prevail.

CALLED TO OPPOSE LINE

Late Comers Replace His Hostile Resolutions With Friendly Ones.

Dr. Augustus Siebert, chairman of the South Side Improvement Association, grabbed his hat and angrily left a mass meeting which he had called to support proposed amendments to the Manufacturers' Railway (Busch line) bill when he discovered that a majority of those present favored the bill unamended. As Dr. Siebert left the hall, he said: "I will turn the meeting over to you fellows."

Dr. Siebert had been active for some time urging citizens to attend the meeting, which was held Thursday night at Anchor Hall, Jefferson and Park avenues. In bills circulated before the meeting Dr. Siebert urged that resolutions should be adopted urging that the bill be amended to provide against a perpetual franchise, grade crossings, excessive charges, and providing compensation for the city, and indorsing the action of President Forman and his supporters in the Council.

When Dr. Siebert called the meeting to order he read his resolutions and asked to hear remarks. No one remarked, and Dr. Siebert put the resolutions to a vote. About half the 50 persons in the hall voted, and the adoption was declared unanimous.

Late Comers for Bill.

Soon after the resolutions were adopted, men began to pour into the hall. In a few minutes 400 were present. They were apparently much different from the early comers, and were anxious to talk. They protested against the resolution. F. W. Feuerbacher was declared out of order, but he continued to protest.

George J. Reifling, president of the Columbia Cooperage Co., told Dr. Siebert he was surprised at the latter's action, whereupon the doctor arose and loudly declared the meeting adjourned.

Mr. Feuerbacher took the chair until H. C. Koenig, president of the Missouri Pressed Brick Co., was elected chairman and William F. Brinkman of the Paddock-Hawley Iron Co. secretary.

A resolution favoring the bill as it is now before the Council, without the amendments restricting the franchise to 50 years, was then passed.

A number of speeches were made before the adoption of the second resolution, and Edwin Pitzman asked that anyone in the hall opposed to a perpetual franchise present his views. There was no response.

VARYING IDEAS AS TO DRUNKENNESS

Witnesses Disagree as to Habits of Defendant in Divorce Suit.

DRUNK—Under the influence of intoxicating liquor to such an extent as to have lost the moral control of one's body and mental faculties and, commonly, to evince a disposition to violence and quarrelsomeness.—Standard Dictionary.

Circuit Judge Douglas, who has taken the divorce case of Mrs. Ida H. Carman against John R. Carman under advisement, will probably have to reach a conclusion as to the drinking habits of Carman by striking an average on the testimony, because there is such a wide range.

Mrs. Carman testified that her husband was drunk every day. Mr. Carman testified that he was never drunk in his life. Henry J. Weekman sided with Mrs. Carman by saying that Carman was drunk all the time. Mrs. Mary B. Hendershot said in her opinion Carman was drunk every day, but she explained that this was only her opinion. She did not know for sure. She based her opinion on his talk and his breath.

Albert Theis said he had seen Carman "feelin' good" and had also heard him "talk foolish," but he would not say that he had ever seen him drunk because he had never seen him "staggerin'." Harry Knapke was sure Carman had never been drunk because he had had never taken more than Knapke and Knapke had always been able to find his way home.

Carman himself admitted that he "took a little" every day, but he was clearly of the opinion that he had never been drunk. He admitted having "slapped the clock off the wall" when his wife made him mad.

CHINA A HOSTILE NATION.

George W. Parker Found Orient Vexed by Exclusion.

George W. Parker, Republican candidate for Mayor in 1901 and former president of the St. Louis, Alton & Terre Haute and Cairo Short Line railroads, who has returned with his wife and daughter from a journey around the world, sees great danger to the United States in the present Chinese immigration laws. Mr. Parker spent several months in China and Japan, and says he is convinced that there is great need for discrimination in enforcing the Chinese exclusion act.

He says that the Chinese are very unfriendly toward the United States because of this act, and that trouble would probably arise in the East if the United States should attempt to gain a further foothold there through the Philippines. China, he believes, would resist the United States.

EARLY LEADER OF REPUBLICANS ILL

H. C. Brokmeyer, Former Lieutenant Governor, in Critical Condition.

A FARMER PHILOSOPHER

Lived in Cabin Until Civil War Period Put Him in Politics.

Henry C. Brokmeyer, former Lieutenant-Governor of Missouri, is seriously ill at his home, 1446 Monroe street. For several months past he has been on the Gulf Coast, in the hope of reviving his waning health, but when his condition recently became critical, he expressed a wish to come home.

Former Lieutenant-Governor Johnson, his associate for two-thirds of a century, says he considers Mr. Brokmeyer one of the most remarkable men who figured in Missouri politics in Civil War days.

These two men, both of whom have presided over the upper house in the Missouri Legislature, at the close of the war were leaders of the opposing branches of their party, Gov. Johnson being the leader of the radical Republicans and Gov. Brokmeyer being the admitted leader of the conservative forces.

"Mr. Brokmeyer has the most remarkable memory of any man I was ever associated with," said Gov. Johnson Friday to a Post-Dispatch reporter. "His intellect was quick and keen, and he could grasp any subject in an incredibly short time. The details he never forgot. His vast storehouse of information was always available, and he could recall any fact at any time.

"It was in the early '50s that I first became acquainted with Mr. Brokeyer. He was then a young man and was a great student. He was associated with William T. Harris, until recently National Superintendent of Education, then at the head of the public schools of St. Louis.

Farmer-Philosopher.

"Mr. Harris started the magazine, 'Speculative Philosophy,' and Mr. Brokmeyer was one of his regular contributors. He was a deep student always, and in those days appeared to care nothing for politics. Along in the latter part of the '50s, Mr. Brokmeyer, who was not by any means wealthy then, withdrew from St. Louis and went to Warren County, where he built himself a cabin, farmed a little and wrote much on speculative philosophy and other abstract topics.

"The next time I came in contact with him was in 1862-63, when he appeared in the State Legislature as the Representative from Warren County. He served but one term, but he became thoroughly familiar with the work, and his remarkable memory made him a valuable ally for any person having business with the Legislature.

"In 1872, when I was the presiding officer of the Senate, Mr. Brokmeyer was a member, and was chairman of the Ways and Means Committee. That was a remarkable Senate. Charles H. Hardin, who was to be the next Governor of the State, was chairman of the Judicial Committee, and Mr. Brokmeyer, to be the next Lieutenant-Governor, was at the head of the Ways and Means Committee.

"After he retired for several years he attended the various sessions of the Legislature. 'Brokmeyer's Cottage' was a place that was much sought by persons having an interest in legislative matters.

"He was not a lobbyist in the sense that the present use of the word conveys. But his long service in all branches of the State's Government, together with his wonderful memory, made his advice of great value. His advice was ever in demand during sessions of the Legislature, and he could give probably better advice on any topic than any other persons who has acted in an advisory capacity at the State Capitol.

"I think it was along about the time of the Cleveland administration that he retired from active politics. Since then I know that he has kept in touch with the political situation, and I am convinced that he has contribuated to some of the newspapers at intervals, because some of the information that I have read could come only from Mr. Brokmeyer.

Drawn Into Politics.

"I am convinced that Mr. Brokmeyer did not go into politics because of the love of it. He and I entered at the same time. In those days a man could not help but take sides. I know that his bent was of a philosophic turn, and he was deeply interested in education. When he was in the House and in the Senate he was one of the strongest friends and advocates the public schools ever possessed.

"He had a wonderful flow of language. He was keen in debate and quick to see a flaw in the arguments of his opponents. He was always outspoken and was always a voracious reader. He had the happy faculty of utilizing his researches into speculative philosophy with practical subjects, and making them harmonize."

MEDICINE-BLANK WILL.

Pfeiffer Testament Written on Doctor's Paper.

One of the shortest wills ever filed in the Probate Court is that of Mary Pfeiffer. It is written on a prescription blank of Dr. G. C. Lyda, dated May 31, 1906, and reads: "This is to certify that, I will all my estate to Julia Pfeiffer, real and personal."

One almost as short is that of William E. Hanlon, written on the letter head of a real estate company. It reads: "To my friend, Thomas O'Malley of 609 Market street, I leave all my money and everything in my rooms in the rear of 1105 North Seventh street. Mrs. J. J. McMahon has me insured in the Metropolitan. The money is in the Mercantile Trust Co."

Albert J. Aiple leaves all of his estate to his wife, Emilie Aiple. Dr. Dana I. Jocelyn makes the same disposition of his.

Great Bible class tonight. Newell of Chicago will speak. Exposition Building, 14th and Olive.

Born Ere Columbus' Day.

Charles Werner, a citizen of Carondelet Township, who, according to his written statement, was born 25 years before Columbus discovered America, and "entered the army to free the negroes" May 29, 1629, is now making application for a pension. He furnished the data on which his demand was based to Justice Noerper of Luxembourg, and on the refusal of the latter to intercede with the Government, took an appeal to Constable John F. Schaper. In spite of the date of his birth, which he gives as 1457, Werner estimates his age as 66 years.

ROARS AGAINST WELLS.

First Ward Improvement Association Censures Mayor.

Mayor Wells was strongly censured by a unanimous vote of the First Ward Improvement Association for his attitude towards the free bridge and for refusing to permit a Fourth of July celebration in Forest Park.

Phil Sheridan moved at Thursday night's meeting that the vote of censure be adopted. Chairman H. C. Schulte suggested that the vote be given in a loud voice. The vote was loud enough to be heard in the next ward. Dr. B. J. Ludwig then expressed the opinion that the association's action "ought to take a little of the conceit out of the Mayor."

The Board of Public Improvements was criticised for its action in the proposed improvements of Natural Bridge road from Grand to Taylor avenue. The property owners want the street paved with brick, while the board favors granite.

The association voted to join the affiliated business men's association.

Officers elected at the meeting were: President, M. C. Schulte; vice-president, E. A. Nelson; recording secretary, J. Hoffman; financial secretary, Harry Rombach; sergeant-at-arms, William Oefelein.

St. Anthony's School.

Brendes, Clara Bloemker, Josie Baier, Clara Dietz, Elise H. Kurgas, Emma Scheublein, Carrie Schaller and Pauline Schwaninger.

Desloge Leaves Boatmen's.

Jules Desloge, first assistant cashier of the Boatmen's Bank, has resigned from that position and will leave the bank July 1 because of ill health. He has been with the bank for 28 years. Ernest M. Hubbard, second assistant cashier, will succeed him, and Edgar L. Taylor, note and discount clerk, will succeed Mr. Hubbard.

TUNNEL DIGGERS WERE STRANGLED

Bodies of Men Lost in East River Accident Are Recovered.

NEW YORK, June 22.—After more than 24 hours of pumping and digging, the bodies of the two men trapped by a blowout in one of the Pennsylvania company's East River tunnels were recovered yesterday.

Instead of being blown out into the river through the break at the base of the shield, as had been supposed, they were caught by the inrush of soft mud and water in the lower chamber of the shield after the air pressure had found vent and were they found in postures indicating that they had strangled by inches.

Their feet were fast in the heavy mud and there were indications that they had made desperate efforts to release themselves. Both bodies were found in standing postures.

WIFE DIVORCES COUNT DE RYLLY

Chicago Court Grants Decree After She Testifies in Secret.

CHICAGO, June 22.—After giving testimony in the court of Judge Gibbons, Countess Sophia de Rylly of Greece has won her suit for divorce against Count Paul de Rylly. The decree was signed yesterday.

Testimony in the unusual divorce proceedings was heard by the Judge in his private office. There were only two witnesses, the Countess and Miss Virginia Neff, both of whom testified to the Count's inebriety and the circumstances of the desertion. Count de Rylly was not present and the charges made by Countess de Rylly were not questioned.

Count de Rylly was formerly a member of the Greek Parliament. He is said to be in Mexico. The Countess is the daughter of a former Prime Minister of Greece and has lived in Chicago two years.

DIVORCE RULE IS INVOKED IN SUIT

Mrs. Nedderhut's Claim to Estate Attacked Under Decision.

The recent United States Supreme Court decision affecting divorces is invoked for the first time in the local courts in defense of the suit of Mrs. Jessie L. Nedderhut for a portion of the estate of August Nedderhut, father of her third husband, Emil Nedderhut. The defense is questioning the validity of the divorce obtained by Mrs. Nedderhut from her first husband, contending that it comes within the decision of the United States Supreme Court and that its validity is destroyed by that decision.

If the contention is upheld by Circuit Judge Foster, the effect will be to annul, not only the Nedderhut marriage, but also the second marriage of Mrs. Nedderhut. Her second husband, from who she also obtained a divorce, is dead, however.

Mrs. Nedderhut's first divorce was obtained in California and service was by publication, the same as in the case decided by the Supreme Court, where a divorce obtained in Connecticut by the wife was disregarded by the New York courts, which granted a divorce to the husband.

Emil Nedderhut's share of his father's estate is $80,000. Mrs. Nedderhut is suing for separate maintenance, or, in lieu of that, $25,000. The case is up now, however, on a motion for temporary allowance.

Mrs. Augusta Delano, executrix, and the St. Louis Union Trust Co., trustee, are co-defendants in the suit.

UNLESS you know the character of tailoring that enters into the making of our clothes for men—unless you thoroughly understand the innovations and special features that characterize every garment—you can form no adequate conception of their superior excellence.

Not one custom tailor in ten can give you as good a fit as we will, and the tailor doesn't exist who can fit you better. Perfection admits of no superlative, and our ready-to-wear clothes are as near perfection as genius can devise and skill produce. We affirm this, not in a boastful spirit, but as useful, practical information, concrete proof of which you will find in the garments themselves.

STRIKING NURSES ARE DISCHARGED

Employes of Belleville Farm Objected to Restrictions on Callers.

VISITS ARE INTERRUPTED

Matron Says She Will Employ the Ugliest Young Women Hereafter.

Supt. Hill of the St. Clair County Farm at Belleville said Friday that the vacancies caused by the dismissal of the three young women nurses and the chief cook, who had rebelled because of restrictions placed upon them in the matter of receiving calls from their beaux and for other reasons which made them dissatisfied, had been filled and that the rebels would not be taken back.

Mrs. Miller, the Matron, announced Friday that she would give preference to the very ugliest girls hereafter.

The three nurses discharged, following their "walk-out," are Emily Miller, Emelia Lemkemeyer and Anna Hendricks. Louisa Sauer was the chief cook.

These young women say that, while they were permitted to receive young men callers, they were required to do tasks that interrupted the visits and made them feel "cheap." They also charge that they were not permitted to congregate during their leisure hours, that they were forbidden to sing when the spirit moved them to lift up their voices in glad caroling, and that, although they went on duty at 5 a. m., they were not allowed to eat a lunch between that time and noon.

Was a Sympathy Move.

The strike materialized, however, as a "sympathy movement" when Miss Hendricks was compelled to do her sewing in the hall instead of in the regular sewing room. Miss Hendricks protested against sewing in the hall, but was told that she must obey orders.

"I'll not do it," she replied. "I'll quit first."

"Then you'll have to quit right now," was the authoritative answer.

The two other nurses and the chief cook took sides with Miss Hendricks in the controversy. "If Anna quits, we'll quit," they said.

Again the flat went forth that strict and unquestioning obedience was the order of the day, whereupon the three indignant trained nurses and the equally indignant chief cook joined in a "walk-out."

Miss Lemkemeyer is from Lower St. Clair County, Miss Sauer from Belleville, Miss Miller from Central St. Clair County, and Miss Hendricks from Sugar Loaf Township, St. Louis County.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

LEXINGTON, Mo., June 22.—The mystery of Mrs. J. Lee Pemberton of Big Timber, Mont., whose disappearance last week in Kansas City has kept the police and detectives busy, was in a measure solved this afternoon, when her mother, Mrs. Chatham Lankford, received a letter from the missing woman.

The letter stated that Mrs. Pemberton arrived in Kansas City June 13, and was taken to the home of a Mrs. Altorr, where she was cared for during the birth of a girl baby. Mrs. Pemberton said in her letter that she would come to Lexington next Saturday.

LITTELL'S
Liquid Sulphur

Every skin rash or redness that appears on your face, hands, arms, legs, back or body carries with it the danger of

Eczema

Eczema starts just that way—first just a slight redness of the skin—this spreads gradually. Then pustules or blisters from which a gummy, sticky fluid oozes. This dries and scales off or forms bad-looking sores and scabs—Eczema. Unless you've had it you can't conceive of the horrible itching, burning, maddening pain. It makes no difference whether you're just at the beginning or far along in your suffering. Littell's Liquid Sulphur will stop itching instantly and absolutely cure the disease. Penetrates the pores of the skin and kills the germs. This is true of all skin diseases—Rashes, Pimples, Sores, Hives, Prickly Heat—from the slightest to the severest.

"Sight Unseen"

It won't do to buy paint like boys trade jackknives—sight unseen.

Business is not a joking matter, nor a thing to gamble about; yet many lay down their good money and pick up a package without the slightest knowledge of what it contains. The dealer himself don't know. The manufacturer knows, but he won't tell. Why? Because it gives him the advantage. He trades a sealed can, contents unknown, for good money, value well known.

It's a sure thing for the manufacturer, but a gamble for the dealer or consumer.

The Horse Shoe Brand is different. That's a straight Zinc, Lead and Oil Paint. Nothing else but the necessary color and dryer, the best paint possible. The purity is proven by chemical analysis made by disinterested scientific experts from cans purchased in the open market. Manufacturers' guarantee of contents on every can. Nothing secret. The proof precedes the paint. You know as much as the man that makes it.

That's safe for you and fair for him. A simple exchange of values.

Walter Williams Advises East Side Graduates to Marry Early.

The public schools of East St. Louis closed at noon Friday. During the morning appropriate closing exercises were held in each room of the grade schools, which were attended by the parents and friends of the pupils. The summer vacation will last two months, the schools opening again Sept. 4.

The commencement exercises held in the High School auditorium Thursday night marked the closing of the High School. Several hundred persons were turned away, there not being seats for all who had received invitations. At the request of Fire Chief Dowling, the Board of Education ordered that the doors be closed as soon as the seats in the auditorium were filled, and that no one be allowed to stand in the aisles. The doors closed at 7:57 p. m.

Walter Williams of Columbia, Mo., spoke to the graduating class on "Prisoners of Truth." He advised the graduates to get married early. He told them that in his opinion there were too many useless articles of furniture in modern homes, and that he considered two pieces of furniture essential to every home. Those pieces of furniture, he said, were babies and books, and he preferred to see new babies and old books.

At the close of the program the following graduates were presented with diplomas:

Thelma Kimball, Estelle Klingler, Elias Leob, Oscar Jost, Wanda Lorton, Beulah McFarland, Kittie Miller, Reiza Sherman, Rosa Miller, Mabel Pew, Elsie Pironi, Joseph Wier, Irene Rhodes, Mabel Rowell Daisy Rudesill, Thomas Wier, Hattie Schultz, Genevieve Schimert, Cora Taylor, Clarence Wynn, Lillian Thron, Lela Wightman, Clarence Beck, Maud Barnes, Helen Bernard, Eola Brenneche, Arthur Eisenmeyer, Pearl Calvert, Blanche Caughlan, Katherine Fairbrother, George Evans, Emma Gill, Carrie Geoglein, Hildegarde Guenther, Worthe Faulkner, Selma Guyette, Josie Healy, Eva Jacobs, Robert Fekete, Jean Jacobs, Anna Jordan, Lucille, Kelley and Ward Gillen.

The diplomas were awarded by President Moody of the Board of Education.

MIDNIGHT BULLETS ENTER A BEDROOM

Affton Cigar Dealer Is Much Alarmed Over Repeated Dangerous Shots.

H. Reaubaum, a cigar dealer of Affton, six miles south of Kirkwood, is unable to explain shots which have been fired at his little home recently. He says he has no enemies among the several hundred inhabitants of Affton, and is inclined to believe that his home has been mistaken for that of another by the firer of the shots.

His house has been the target for three bullets. One was fired just before daybreak through the window of his sleeping room, and the other two, fired the same night, were embedded in the wall. Three nights before the shooting large stones were hurled at his home.

Mr. Reaubaum lives with his brother in a one-story frame house, situated about three blocks away from the main road of Affton. He makes cigars in his home, which also serves as a salesroom.

Mr. Reaubaum told a Post-Dispatch reporter Friday that the disturbances began the night of May 26. Several stones were thrown at his house that night. When he ran from his bedroom to investigate, he could see no one. The stone throwing was repeated two nights after that, but each time, he says, he was unable to discover anyone when he ran out to investigate.

"The first shot was fired at 3 o'clock Sunday morning, June 10," said Mr. Reaubaum. "I was aroused by the crashing of glass in my bedroom, and discovered that a shot had pierced the window of my bedroom. It broke the bowl of a lamp which sat on a table, and the oil was spilled over the tobacco, which was lying there ready for work Monday.

"At the sound I ran outside, but could see no one. I did not worry much at the time, but became alarmed at what happened that night.

"I was awake and had just looked at the clock. It was 11:30. Two shots broke the silence, and there was a crash against the side of the house. I ran out again, and this time I heard footsteps in the distance. Mrs. Henry Diemann, my nearest neighbor, had been aroused by the shots and had come out before me. She said she had seen two men galloping away on horses.

"I failed to discover horses' tracks, however. Mrs. Diemann's husband was not aroused."

Mr. Reaubaum has told some of his friends of the mysterious shots, and they have formed themselves into a Vigilance Committee.

RUNAWAY GIRLS FOUND WITH MEN

Mrs. James Thomas of 2114 Washington avenue expects her husband to return Friday from Chester, Ill., with her 15-year-old daughter, Tessie Henschen, who has been missing from home since June 8. Tessie was employed at a suspender factory at 823 Washington avenue, and it was with another factory girl, Frances Kast of 1308½ Sidney street, that she ran away with George Bond and John Boring, who are wanted at Jefferson Barracks.

Tessie Henschen's stepfather, James Thomas, left at 4 p. m. Thursday for Chester to bring the girl home. On the same train was Mrs. Kast, who was on a like errand. Mrs. Thomas says she will turn her daughter over to the Juvenile Court.

Frances Kast is 15 years old and lives with her grandmother and aunt at the Sidney street address, and heretofore is said to have been of a quiet disposition.

Chief of Police Harkness of Chester is holding George Bond and John Boring at the direction of Col Tutherly of Jefferson Barracks, who wired that both the men were wanted and would be sent for.

WOMAN AND HER ESCORT THROWN OUT OF BUGGY

Plaintiff in Divorce Suit Injured While Taking Evening Ride.

MARRIED MAN ALSO HURT

Carriage Smashed When Runaway Horse Crashed Into Hitching Post.

HAD BEEN AT A GARDEN

Mrs. Thompson Says Gesellschap's Niece Accompanied Them on Trip.

Mrs. Katherine Thompson of 2115 North Twelfth street, plaintiff in a divorce suit now pending, was injured in a runaway accident on St. Louis avenue about 1:30 a. m. Friday. She had been out driving with Julius Gesellschap, a grocer, who lives with his wife and family at 4011 North Eleventh street.

Gesellschap was hurled from the vehicle and knocked unconscious. His left knee was hurt, he got a bad cut under the chin, his left hand was seriously injured and his body was severely bruised. Mrs. Thompson has a gash between the eyes and complains of pains in her left knee.

Gesellschap hired a buggy from a livery at 2134 North Tenth street, about 8 o'clock Thursday evening and took Mrs. Thompson for a drive.

They went to an amusement garden, where they stayed the most of the evening and then started to return home. They stopped several times on the way, and when they reached Fifteenth street and St. Louis avenue, the horse, which was a spirited animal, was frightened and ran away.

The buggy careened east on the avenue until the horse reached a point in front of No. 915, when it swerved suddenly and the vehicle crashed into an iron hitching post. It was smashed almost to splinters and the occupants were thrown out.

Mrs. Thompson fell on her face and knees and Gesellschap fell in much the same manner. The man was insensible and both were carried into a neighboring physician's office.

The livery man took Gesellschap to his home and Mrs. Thompson was also given escort to hers.

Gesellschap said he could not remember how he was hurt. He insisted that he actually knew nothing about it until he reached his home. He could not recall the runaway, neither did he know much that occurred after the garden was left.

The grocer said that he had taken Mrs. Thompson for a drive. He said she is one of his customers and had spoken to him several times of going riding, and when she again mentioned it Thursday afternoon he invited her to accompany him that evening. She accepted.

Mrs. Thompson is only 20 years old. She has been married five years, having become the bride of James Thompson when she was only 15 years old. They have been separated, according to her statement, since May, 1905, and she filed suit for divorce a short while ago. They have one child.

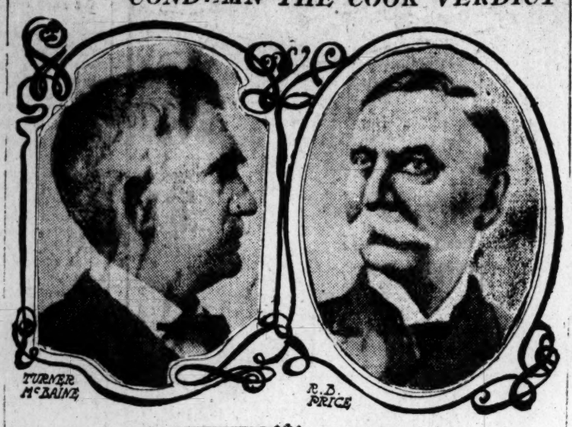

She said a niece of the grocer accompanied them on the drive, but she did not know the young woman's address, and nobody in the neighborhood knew of her.

Mrs. Thompson said she drove out to the garden and in, but when they reached Fifteenth street and St. Louis avenue Gesellschap seemed to lose his head and seized the lines. The horse had been restive all evening, and when the reins were jerked, she said, the animal plunged forward and they could not stop it.

"I would not mind at all," said Mrs. Thompson, "if only this cut were anywhere but on my face. It's awful. I know it'll leave a scar. My knee hurts, too.

"Mr. Gesellschap is only a friend of our family. He calls here frequently. I'm sorry for him, but it can't be helped now. I wouldn't have gone with him if his niece hadn't been with us. She was thrown out, too, but got only a little scratch on the face and went home by herself."

COLUMBIA BANKERS WHO CONDEMN THE COOK VERDICT

BANKERS HEARING COOK CASE EVIDENCE CONDEMN FINDING

President McBaine of the Columbia Exchange National Bank Says That the Banking Fraternity of Missouri Owes the Post-Dispatch a Debt of Gratitude for Its Stand on Salmon Failure.

By a Staff Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

COLUMBIA, Mo., June 22.—Two of Boone County's foremost financiers, Capt. R. B. Price, president of the National Bank of Columbia, and Turner McBaine, president of the Exchange National Bank, were interested spectators at the trial of the damage suit of former Secretary of State Sam B. Cook against the Post-Dispatch. Ten of the jurors voted for a verdict in favor of the plaintiff, assessing his judgment at $50,000. The other two, W. H. Cochran and J. L. Dodd, refused to sign the verdict, asserting that it was an outrage and contrary to every principle of justice. This is the verdict of the representative citizens of Boone County.

No one was more greatly surprised than Capt. Price. Having followed the case step by step from its inception he became familiar with the issues involved and the facts upon which both sides relied to win.

"It was my sincere opinion," said Capt. Price today, "that the Post-Dispatch had far the best of the evidence. I am unable to understand the verdict."

"The banking fraternity of Missouri," said Col. McBaine of the Exchange Bank, "owes the Post-Dispatch a debt of gratitude for the thorough manner in which it exposed the iniquitous conditions relative to the Salmon Bank failure. The lesson learned from the facts brought out in this case is one that will not be forgotten. As I have said before, the verdict of the jury is utterly beyond my comprehension. A short time after it was returned I met the plaintiff, who is a personal and political friend of mine, and told him what I thought about it. One of the jurors who voted to give him $50,000 was standing near at the time. Mr. Cook insisted that I didn't understand the issue.

"'Oh, yes, I do, Sam,' I answered. 'You can't get away from the conclusion based on the evidence that your office was convicted of neglect of duty in not examining that bank for 25 months, and you were not entitled to a verdict.'

"'That wasn't the point,' he said, and I said no more.

"Things have come to a pretty pass in this republic of ours if the newspapers are debarred from expressing their views in regard to the acts of public officials. Irregularities and corruption in office and bribery in elections are the cardinal evils in our system of government today.

"Why, it is only a short time ago that I was a candidate for office myself and encountered some of the malign influences of politics. My friends urged me to make the race for State Representative from Boone County. I thought over the matter at length, but I waited until within eight days of the primary before announcing my candidacy. Now I had an idea I could get about anything I asked in the way of political honors from the Democrats of Boone County. Some of them whom I counted on had been aided by me when they needed aid mighty badly. They all shook hands with me after I formally announced my aspirations and assured me of their earnest support. A few days before the primary a number of the boys came around looking for money. Some wanted $5, others $25 and still a third contingent $50 apiece for their votes. An insurance agent wanted to write out a $50,000 policy on myself and family. Think of it. All I have to say about that is that I didn't accept any of their offers. I couldn't do so and retain my manhood. The bosses said I was closefisted. Well, I guess they were right. I was buried under an avalanche of votes. I can't tell just how it happened, but it did. I was a sound-money man, but voted for Bryan. That didn't make any difference.

"I would like to see the laws made so strict that every official who failed to perform his duty would be sent to jail. Our laws governing the State supervision of banks are not rigid enough. If that man Bunce had done his duty there might have been no Salmon Bank failure. And Mr. Cook, no matter what he may say or what verdict he may get from juries, evaded responsibility for the work of his bank examiner. Why, the Post-Dispatch might with equal right say that it couldn't be held liable for something put in the papers by one of its employes. It was the first time I was ever fooled by a Boone County jury. And I am sure that three out of four persons who heard the evidence will say the same thing."

FAMOUS LIQUID AIR EXPERT DEAD

Charles Tripler, Organizer of Producing Company, Victim of Bright's Disease.

NEW YORK, June 22.—It was announced today that Charles E. Tripler of liquid-air fame died Wednesday at a hotel in Liberty, N. Y., from Bright's disease, after an illness of two months. He was born in this city in 1849.

In the course of experiments with the liquefaction of gases Mr. Tripler took up the idea of compressing air until it took fluid form. A corporation was formed. Among those interested in the venture is former Senator John P. Jones of Nevada.

GRADE CROSSINGS TO BE DEPRESSED

Ordinances for Changing Three Places Now Dangerous Are Prepared.

The Board of Public Improvements received Friday from Street Commissioner Valliant two plans with ordinances attached. The first provides for the abolition of grade crossings at Tower Grove station and at King's highway, where it crosses Oak Hill road. The other is agreed upon by the city authorities and the Frisco Railroad for the abolition of the grade crossing at Fyler avenue.

The plans in both cases provide for depression of the tracks and the building of viaducts. At Tower Grove the viaduct will be only 3 feet above present street grade. At King's highway the street grade will be raised about 16 feet, making the reconstruction of two blocks of street necessary at the north end and four at the south end. At Fyler avenue the same plan will be followed. Here the railroad will pay for the bridge and the city for the approaches.

In all three improvements the city retains control of the viaducts by assuming the cost of maintenance. The ordinances submitted by the Street Commissioner provide that 60 days shall be allowed for presentation and approval of the plans for the work by the railroad companies, and for the completion of the work within one year from the time the ordinances become effective.

Commissioner Valliant said that the industries located on the tracks of the various railroads concerned in the improvement will not be seriously incommoded by the depression of the tracks.

LOTS AT AUCTION.

It was stated at the Mercantile Trust Co. this morning that all arrangements had been perfected for tomorrow's big auction at Southampton. Special cars have been engaged to transport, free of charge, prospective purchasers to the scene of the sale. These cars will run out Pine street, following the course of the Chouteau avenue line. A brass band will discourse music all afternoon and refreshments will be served to all who attend.

A lively interest is being manifested in this sale, owing, no doubt, to the easy terms on which the lots will be sold, and to the fact that a remarkable insurance feature is added as an extra inducement.

The sale commences at 2 o'clock and will be cried by Judge Henry L. Sutton.

LEWIS PLANS TO FORM NEW MUNICIPALITY

Petitions Are Circulated for Incorporation of "University City."

DELMAR GARDEN A PART

Washington University, Woman's Magazine and Heights Are Included.

UNIVERSITY NOT HELPING

Has Its Own Light and Water, and Wants to Be Left Out.

Petitions are being circulated in St. Louis County, near the western limits of St. Louis, for the incorporation of a fourth-class city to be known as University City. About 450 signatures have been obtained, and as soon as the petitions are complete they will be submitted to the County Court.

E. G. Lewis of the People's United States Bank and the Woman's Magazine is said to be the prime mover.

As outlined in the petitions, the city will include Washington University, Delmar Garden, the Woman's Magazine Building and University Heights.

The limits proposed are the city limits on the east, Forsythe road on the south, the Clayton limits and Hanley road on the west and the Suburban tracks on the north.

Three petitions were put in circulation Friday and it is said that others will be sent through other parts of the county if the proposition seems to have sufficient support to warrant it.

An official of the university said to a Post-Dispatch reporter Friday:

"To gain our support the petition must be changed. We do not want to be a part of this projected city. We are willing to give our support to a plan to incorporate a city which shall extend to the northern boundary of our grounds. As it is we have our own water, lights and sewers, and there would be no advantage to us in becoming part of a separate municipality."

E. G. Lewis said:

"I am leading the movement to have this district incorporated as a fourth-class city because I believe the people out here ought to have police protection and other advantages which incorporation would give them. There are about 1500 residents in the district, and I think we will have no difficulty in getting the signatures not only of a majority of the property owners but of the resident taxpayers.

"We have the co-operation of Washington University. As the university has its own police system and improvements, it may not be advisable to include it in the limits of the new city. In that case the plan can be altered so as to extend the limits only to the north boundary of the university grounds."

The statutes require that a majority of the taxable inhabitants of a town desiring to become a city shall file a petition with the County Court. If the petition is found to be valid, the court incorporates the city and appoints officers to serve until the next general election, when the city shall select its own officers.

Cities of the fourth class must have at least 500 inhabitants.

DID NOT LOVE HUSBAND.

Wife Admits Leaving Him After Six Days.

According to her deposition as defendant, taken in behalf of her husband, who is suing for divorce, Mrs. Monettie Perrett of Chicago, says she left her husband's bed and board six days after their marriage because she discovered she did not love her husband as she thought she did.

The action of Clay W. Perrett for divorce is on the docket in Judge Fischer's court. The couple were married on St. Valentine's Day in St. Louis, 1899. The honeymoon ended a week later. Mr. Perrett went to his work from their home at 2900 Gamble street and Mrs. Perrett went to the home of her parents at Freeman, Mo., on the same day. They did not live together afterward.

TRAPS LETTER WRITER.

Youth Admits Writing, but Says He Is Innocent.

P. J. McNamara, a neat young man, who says he lives at 3216 St. Vincent avenue, co-defendant with another young man on a charge of sending threatening letters, appeared before Judge Moore in the Court of Criminal Correction Friday Morning and pleaded not guilty to the charge. The police are looking for the other youth.

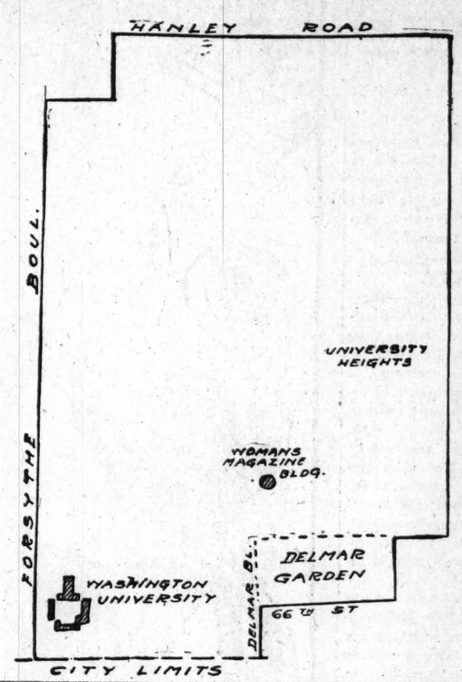

"We wrote the letters, but I am innocent," McNamara told Judge Moore.

Prof. J. R. Hutchinson, principal of a school at Quincy, Ill., caused the warrant to be issued against McNamara and his friend. The witnesses are S. L. Isbell of 4935 Page boulevard and Joseph Temple, local agent for the Adams Express Co.

While on a recent visit to St. Louis Prof. Hutchinson stayed at 3237 Washington avenue. When he returned to Quincy, he charges he received a letter stating that he had misbehaved himself while in this city and threatening to expose him if he did not "come across" with $50 for each of two men. The letter, he alleges, was signed by McNamara and another man.

Prof. Hutchinson, assisted by others, set a trap. He sent $5 by express and it is said McNamara called at the express office for it. The warrant was issued on this information. In applying for the warrant, Prof. Hutchinson said he wanted the matter given full publicity as he could prove his innocence of any wrongdoing.

TRACT WHICH LEWIS PROPOSES TO INCLUDE IN "UNIVERSITY CITY"

YOUNG M'CURDY GOING.

Will Sail for Europe to Tell Father All About It.

NEW YORK, June 22.—Robert H. McCurdy, former general manager of the Mutual Life Insurance Co., will sail for Europe within a day or two. He goes to join Richard A. McCurdy, his father, who just after he resigned as president of the company went abroad.

At the time his father sailed Robert McCurdy declared that he would remain to face the storm that had already begun to rage around the heads of the former officers of the company. He was here during the investigation of the insurance grand jury, but was not called as a witness. Since that body completed its work, which resulted in the indictments of former Vice-Presidents Gillette and Grannlss, it is understood that the elder Mr. McCurdy has expressed a desire to hear in detail about the revelations.

Held on Wife's Charge.

O. H. Perry of Kirkwood was arrested at Troy, Mo., Friday on a warrant charging abandonment. The warrant was issued by Mrs. Perry by Justice Preiss of St. Louis County. Mrs. Perry told the Justice that, June 17, Perry took their only child and boarded a train at Kinloch for Troy. Deputy Sheriff Oldenworth left Friday to return Perry back to Kirkwood.

NEW FRISCO MANAGER.

William C. Nixon Rose From Watchman's Position.

William C. Nixon, who began his railroad career as a watchman, will come to St. Louis Aug. 1 to accept the position of general manager of the Frisco system. Mr. Nixon has resigned as second vice-president and general manager of the Gulf, Colorado & Santa Fe Railroad at Galveston.

He will rank next to Second Vice-President C. R. Gray. His appointment is said to be due to the extension of the system to the Gulf. Mr. Nixon will have his headquarters in St. Louis. Since his days as a watchman, Mr. Nixon has been successively clerk, cashier, agent, superintendent's chief clerk, trainmaster, material agent and division superintendent.

Southerners Excited Over Cooper's Cures.

There seems to be no let-up in the excitement over the remarkable cures of stomach trouble and rheumatism that L. T. Cooper, the young philanthropist is effecting with his medicines.

His work in New Orleans for the past few weeks has been creating wide attention in that section of the country. On the streets, in hotels and other public places Cooper's cures are the sole topic of conversation. He is discussed everywhere, and the newspapers contain daily reports of his cures. A number of startling cases have been cited and the names of the most prominent citizens have appeared in connection, which fact seems to verify the truth of the reports.

In an interview with Mr. J. T. Russell, a well-known business man of New Orleans, living at 2538 Delachaise St., who is reported as having been cured of Rheumatism with the new medicines, he said: "It's true that I have been wonderfully benefited by Cooper's New Discovery medicine in a very severe case of Sciatic Rheumatism, from which I suffered for some time. I have used Cooper's medicines one week, and the results have been truly marvelous. Before that time I was almost helpless, and now I can use the afflicted parts freely without the least pain. The swelling and soreness disappeared soon after I began using the treatment and now I am improving every day."

Mr. A. J. Erskine, another prominent and influential man of New Orleans, living at 1005 Annunciation St., whose name was among those printed in a recent issue of the Picayune, was seen and talked freely of his experience. He was enthusiastic in his praise of Cooper and said: "I am surprised myself, at the wonderful results I have obtained from the use of these preparations, for my case was a most obstinate one and has baffled medical skill for the past three years. I have been suffering from Inflammatory Rheumatism and some time ago I went to a hospital where I received the best of care and was treated by several physicians, but without relief. One of my knees was greatly swollen, and so sore that I could not bear to touch it. I had tried everything I ever heard of, and had about given up hope of ever getting better when I began to read the stories of Cooper's marvelous cures. I determined to see what his remedies would do for me, however, and began using them. At the end of the first week the swelling had been reduced and I could use my limb freely without the least pain. I have been improving right along and now I feel better than I have for some time."

Cooper's preparations are well-known in this city, and have effected some remarkable cures here. At Wolff-Wilson's drug store, the local sales agency for the medicines, it is said that the demand has been enormous, and that the sales are still on the increase, which fact amply proves their efficiency.

Gov. Hoch has his eye on the pulpiteer who demands an eye for an eye.

What would Thomas Jefferson have said to such a verdict as that in the Cook case?

NO TERMINAL FRANCHISE GRANTS.

President Forman of the Council hints that he knows more about the combine which is standing in the way of the amendment of the Manufacturers' Railway bill than he cares to tell. If Mr. Forman knows anything which would be of value in protecting the city's interests against an effort to jam through an improper franchise grant, he should tell it. The public should have full information concerning the work of the Council in this matter.

The developments in the Council concerning this bill supplement the reasons which the Post-Dispatch has given for postponing action on the Manufacturers' Railway franchise. The action of the Senate and the House on the bill granting a charter for a free municipal bridge to the city practically assures the completion of the first step toward the building of the bridge. The city will have a charter enabling it to construct the bridge without delay. The next question to be determined is its location and then plans must be laid for its use. What its operation will require in the way of terminals is not yet known, nor can it be known until the subject is thoroughly investigated. Until we know precisely what the city will need to make the bridge an effective factor in the terminal situation, no franchise for terminal facilities should be granted. Every terminal opportunity should be held in reserve until definite, intelligent plans for the municipal bridge are made.

The Manufacturers' Railway bill should be laid aside until the free bridge plans are worked out.

Five hundred British teachers are coming to the United States. They will be greatly shocked at the absence of their broad a west of Boston.

PHILADELPHIA JUSTICE.

Within twenty-four hours after his arrest, Kean, the kidnaper of Freddie Muth, in Philadelphia, was inside the Penitentiary, under a sentence of 20 years at hard labor.

This swift Philadelphia justice sharply contrasts with the conclusion of the Pat Crowe case in Omaha, who, after long-drawn-out court proceedings, was acquitted of a charge of kidnaping.

But Kean pleaded guilty and Crowe had the benefit of a jury of his peers. Jury justice, as the jury system is administered in some parts of the country, is as uncertain as the weather. But the Philadelphia prosecutor and Judge deserve credit for their quick work. Children are safer in Philadelphia on account of it.

The Iowa idea that the high tariff has been a shelter for monopoly will always be bobbing up.

AN EXTRAORDINARY MAYOR.

Indianapolis has a Mayor who seems to have a habit of doing extraordinary things. It would be considered an extraordinary thing, would it not, if the Mayor of St. Louis were to write a letter to a city board calling attention to exorbitant prices for ice, imposed in connection with short weights in delivery, by a combination controlling the ice supply of the city?

No doubt it will occur to most people familiar with a Mayor's powers that he has no power to regulate the price of ice, even when it is exorbitant. This occurred, as a matter of fact, to Mayor Bookwalter of Indianapolis. He said, however, that the "power of the city should be exerted" for the protection of the public as far as the law allowed.

This may turn out in Indianapolis to be much further than the Ice Trust expects. It might turn out the same way in St. Louis. Laws are made for the protection of the public. As that is their purpose, it is always likely to develop extraordinary results when a Mayor or any other official is extraordinary enough to go "as far as the law allows" to reach results in an attempt to protect the public against "cinches."

Should the Democrats capture Oklahoma, Uncle Joe Cannon will be a heart-broken despot.

TEACHING HISTORY.

On the heels of Mrs. De Koven's charges against Col. Buel's biography of Paul Jones comes a letter from a Philadelphian who calls attention to the fact that a block of timber in Independence Hall labeled "A piece of the original timber of the frigate Alliance, commanded by John Paul Jones in the Revolutionary War," is not entitled to reverence. The Alliance was never really commanded by Jones, though it was a part of his squadron.

A "fake" of this kind would not mislead historical students, but it is an affront to every intelligent man who does not like to be humbugged, not even in matters not important. There can be no excuse for such a blunder.

If we cannot rely upon the evidence of historical relics in museums claiming to be managed with the highest intelligence and protected by the nicest scholarship, such institutions will lose their interest and usefulness. And if we cannot trust history books written according to modern methods of discriminating research, we shall have to return to the method of Thucidydes, who, in his history of the Peloponnessian War, put speeches in the mouths of Pericles and other heroes which they never delivered. But he took care to make them "in character." Pericles did not deliver the funeral oration he might have delivered. In this view, history becomes a matter of mind and character reading. The historian must by personal acquaintance or intuition seize the salient characteristics of warriors and statesmen and give us a "true" Pericles or Lincoln, which depends for its truth upon the insight of the historian.

Museums which harbor "fake" relics, and historians who evolve documents and facts from their inner consciousness or have not scholarship enough to distinguish true from false evidence, do not raise the credit of history. There is no instruction in it unless it is true.

The fact that St. Louis is in no county has worried and puzzled thousands, who still do not seem to understand it; yet here comes now a scientific statement that a volcano emits neither flame nor smoke and that it throws out no ashes. What will happen if the human intellect is to be further taxed?

AN IMPERATIVE DUTY.

In the suit against the Post-Dispatch, resulting from its comment on the methods by which the Salmon Bank was wrecked, a bank inspector sent from the office of the Secretary of State, and appointed by the then Secretary of State, presumably as an expert competent to examine the bank, excused his negligence on the ground that, not being an expert, he could not know the true condition of the bank.

This plea that they did not know, repeated by men paid by the State to get such knowledge systematically and periodically for the protection of the public is the ground on which the Post-Dispatch is called on to pay damages, for insisting emphatically on the responsibility of such officials for their official ignorance, willful or natural, systematic or accidental.

The welfare of thousands of people whose earnings are to be protected by law, enforced by public officials paid not to remain ignorant of what the law requires them to know, calls on every newspaper in Missouri to do its public duty in demanding the enforcement of law for the protection of the public.

If small depositors, widows, aged men, minor children and hard-pressed fathers of families such as were ruined by the wrecking of the Salmon Bank, are not protected by the emphatic demand of newspapers for official responsibility for the enforcement of law, they can have no protection at all and honest banking will be left to the mercy of such wreckers as those who robbed the depositors of the Salmon Bank.

A newspaper which does less in any such case than the Post-Dispatch has done will be false to the duty it owes the public which supports it. The duty is clear; the responsibility for doing it is imperative.

But if the newspapers which assume this responsibility and do their duty at great labor and expense are penalized, while public officers are rewarded for the ignorance which they plead as a defense from criticism, what must be the final outcome to the people of the State?

Even a Legislature and Governor have failed to muzzle the press in Pennsylvania. Will juries in Missouri accomplish what Legislatures and Governors cannot do in other States?

TH E LAW OF EARTHQUAKES.

Prof. Jagger of Harvard hopes to reduce our knowledge of volcanoes and earthquakes to order and so obtain some sort of a science which will enable mankind to place such conclusions on the level of ordinary insurance risks.

But how can there be a science of the incalculable? If it is true that the interior of the earth is hot; if it is true that therefore the crust breaks and falls in as the mass beneath cools and contracts, how can we ever determine where the break is likely to occur next time? Here are two "ifs." How many more there may be no man can say. But they must be disposed of before we can begin to consider the answer to any question.

Again, it is said that volcanoes are caused by breaks in the crust of the earth under the sea. The water flows upon the molten mass, steam is generated, expands and the eruption follows. This is probable, but purely hypothetical. Such a cause might operate, but does it? And if it does, when and where will the bed of the ocean break next time?

We have harnessed many natural forces—the expansive force of steam and gases, electricity, even gravity. But the greater number of the energies of the universe still baffle the wisdom of man.

The area of an earthquake is but as a pin point compared with the area of the earth's surface. What generalizations are possible from the few instances which can be studied? We can observe, compile, tabulate, compare. But to generalize a law, an order of seismic and volcanic phenomena—that seems beyond the power of man's mind.

The bricklayer who says he did right in throwing hot mortar into the eyes of a boy who refused to buy a can of beer for him would have aided in the violation of the law against selling liquor to minors. Yet here is a man who has the right of suffrage, or can have it.

In framing her constitution, Oklahoma will have the benefit of the experience of all the States. It should be about perfect.

GREATER PITTSBURG.

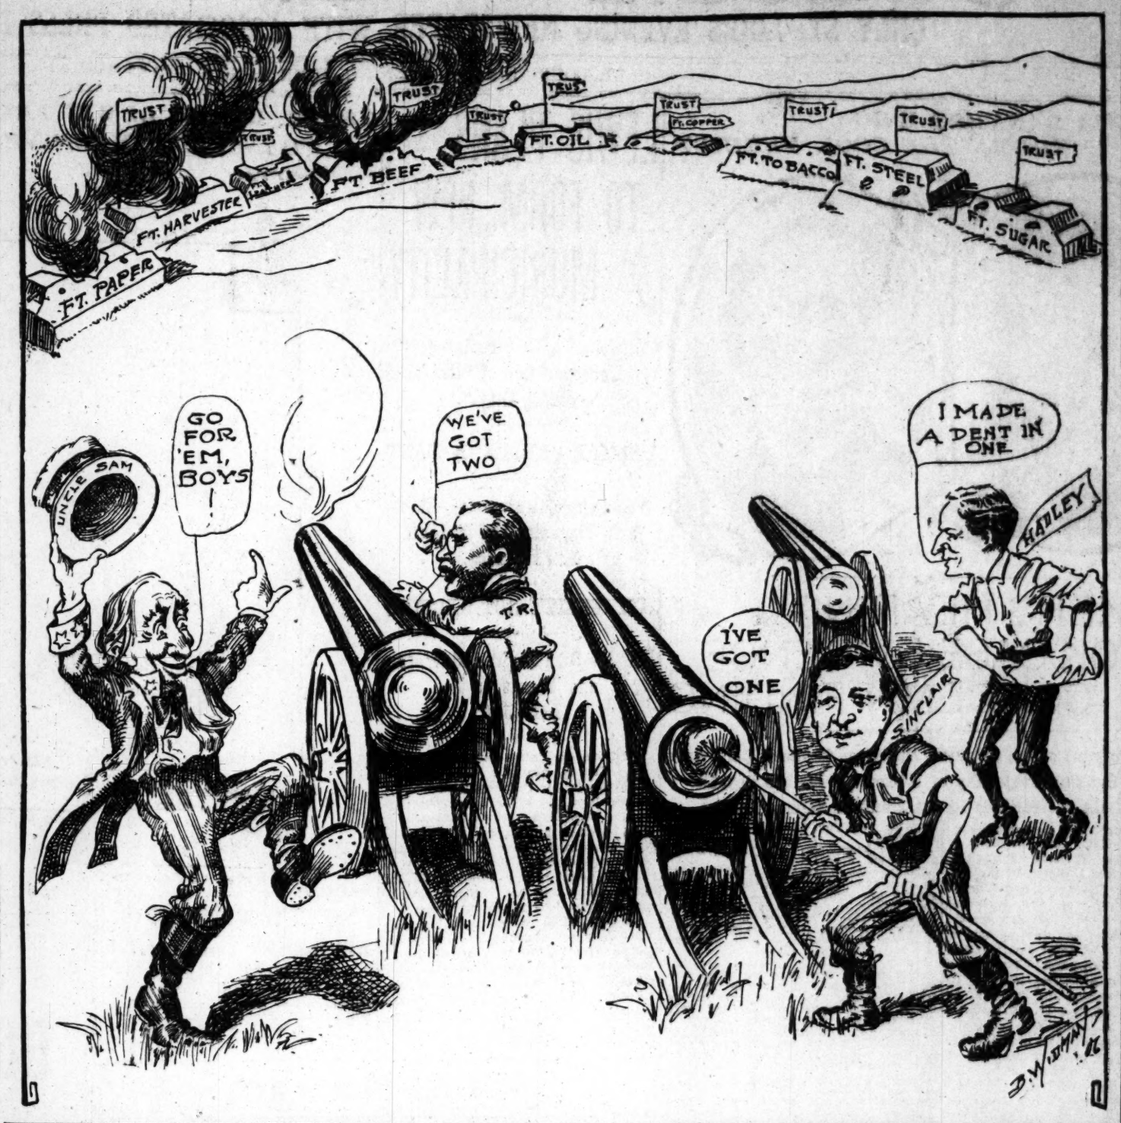

From the New York World.

By the census of 1900 Pittsburg had a population 321,616 and was eleventh on the list of American cities. Allegheny in 1900 had 129,896 people. Estimates prepared for the World Almanac for 1906 give Pittsburg a count of 360,000 and Allegheny 145,000—a total of 505,000. Local enthusiasts claim for the consolidated city 521,000 to 550,000, with sixth place on the national roll. The struggle for place is with Baltimore, which counted 508,957 in 1900.

Within a ten-mile radius from Greater Pittsburg, in Allegheny County, there was in 1900 a population of more than 750,000. On the ground they call it more than 850,000 now. McKeesport, Braddock and Homestead are among the big towns within these limits. Presumably we may look for more consolidations later, and the rise in Pittsburg of a One Million Club to match that newly in evidence in St. Louis.

THE BOMBARDMENT

Pictoral Resume of the Anti-Trust Fight by a Post-Dispatch Artist

With Post-Dispatch Poets and Humorists

THE POET'S FRIEND.

Mary had a little lamb,
A butty little brute;
It followed her to school one day,
And made the teacher scoot.

And now that Mary's dead and gone
A thousand years or more,
The doughty lamb defies the wolf
Before the poet's door.

The Aztecs called the antelope a teuthlalmacame. A pretty hard name for a gentle creature like an antelope, but probably nothing like the way they would have sworn had they addressed themselves to the hippopotamus.

This eccentric June is making the old resident think awful hard.

A LONG WAIT.

"What do you think of Hobson's chances to get the Democratic nomination for President?"

"I think if he waits till he gets it he will have to hold up his beard when he runs."

A TRIBUTE.

I sing a tune in praise of June,
But not because of skies
Surpassing fair, nor perfumed air,
But June's gooseberry pies.

CHEER UP.

The frequency with which we get our dates mixed is one of the most discouraging of those hostile phenomena which combat perfection. Our mental omissions are so persistent that few of us know equanimity. The memory seems a loosely fenced corral, and while we are driving new facts in on one side, old facts are escaping on another.

No writer likes to be seen with a dictionary at one elbow, an encyclopedia of quotations at the other, and a dozen wisdom-made-easies stacked behind the typewriter. But some of us are resigned to such precautions, because our minds are as stone to receive information and as wax to retain it.

The only possible comfort for us, humble writers all, is to read our betters. There may we find that which goes far toward reconciling us to our own imperfections. In the current number of Scribner's Magazine we find Cy Warman saying that Prince Rupert was Canada's best friend when certain Americans were crying "Fifty-four fifty or fight!" In the current number of the St. Louis Mirror we find William Marion Reedy speaking of Iowa the Buckeye State. And only two days ago T. K. Hedrick suggested in the Globe-Democrat that Alfred Robyn, Arthur Lieber or Herbert Spencer (see City Directory, pages 1 to 2555) might set Chesley Island to music. If these gentlemen are not infallible, then heaven help the rest of us!

"So that college professor spoke favorably of your son?" said the fond mother.

"Sort of favorably," answered the father, "He said there was no danger of his growing up to be one of these pedants who never know anything except what they get in books."—Washington Star.

STORIES TOLD IN WASHINGTON

To the Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

WASHINGTON, June 22.—Senator Penrose of Pennsylvania was at the railroad station in Harrisburg, after he had successfully bossed an unbossed Republican State convention, waiting for a train. A man came up to him.

"How do you do, Senator Penrose?" he said. "How are you?"

Penrose replied gruffly.

"I guess you don't know me, do you?"

"I haven't that pleasure," Penrose replied, in his deepest chest tones.

"Never heard of me?"

"Can't say that I have."

"Well," said the man, "I am Prof. Hoch, the man you insisted on nominating yesterday for Secretary of Internal Affairs."

"O-h-h-h-h!" said Penrose, shaking hands again, "I am glad to meet you."

One of the items in the sundry civil appropriation bill reads: "For hospital, namely: pay of assistant surgeons, matrons, druggists, hospital clerks and steward, ward masters, nurses, cooks, waiters, readers, hospital carriages drivers, hearse drivers, gravediggers, funeral escort and such other services as may be necessary for the care of the sick.

"Here," shouted Senator Spooner, "What have hearse drivers, gravediggers and funeral escort to do with merely sick persons, or is a visit to that hospital always fatal?"

"No, no," said Senator Hale, who is in charge of the bill. "The words 'or burial of the dead' should go in there."

And they made it so.

John R. McLean, proprietor and editor of the Washington Post, was sitting in his office last night when a new reporter came in to see him. The new reporter was new for fair.

"Now Mac," he said, "I do not think we should do this."

"See here, my boy," expostulated McLean, "don't call me Mac. That is entirely too formal. Call me Johnny."

Gen. Charles H. Grosvenor appeared in the House Thursday clad in a suit of white duck, a suit of white hair and a suit of white whiskers, the last two being his usual appendages, but the first named being a most unusual departure from his statesman black. His colleagues gave him a fine round of applause when he burst into view.

"Looks like the 'Ancient Mariner,'" commented Uncle Joe Cannon, who is poetic at times.

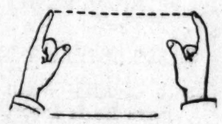

"Yes," said Sereno E. Payne, who is always prosaic, "or a white wings."

THE FISH THAT GOT AWAY

Written for the Post-Dispatch
By Charles R. Barnes.

I.

The jolly fisher cast his line
One bright midsummer's day,
And hooked a fish—you know the kind—
The fish that got away;
When he got home, he told his friends
The usual hard luck song—
It ran like this: "Say, boys, that trout
Was just about this long:"

II.

Between those fingers was a space
Of most two feet, I guess—
And every man regarded him
With evident distress;
The fingers that he used to show
How long that fishie grew,
Were not the ones to measure with—
He should have used these two:

Bill at Work.

"So Bill, after leaving Harvard, went to Texas. What's he doing there?"

"Raising palms, I believe."

"Gone in for arboriculture, eh?"

"Not exactly—making tenderfoots throw up their hands."—Boston Transcript.

All Depends.

"Willful waste makes woeful want," quoted the lady moralizer.

"Oh, I don't know," rejoined the gentleman demoralizer. "Most women waste words in their conversation, but they never seem to want for more."—Chicago News.

LETTERS FROM THE PEOPLE

This column is open for discussion of public questions. Letters should not exceed 150 words.

Small Parks.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

I approve of the suggestion made by S. O. Cialist regarding small parks in the congested parts of the city.

Look at the thousands of tenement district people who would give most anything for a chance to spend an hour or so in a park on a close, hot evening.

Do away with the unsanitary tenements and push the park idea, and it will only be another step toward the co-operative commonwealth which we are all longing for when we say "Thy kingdom come, Thy will be done."

"BROTHER SOCIALIST."

Pure Food Laws.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

Why are not the meat packers punished? Also why do we not have pure food laws and inspectors, for not only the packing houses but the butchers, grocers, bakers and all manufacturers and dealers in food? There should be stringent inspection daily of these places at unlooked for hours. It is almost impossible to get pure food nowadays.

No wonder there is so much consumption and other diseases.

E PLURIBUS UNUM.

A Protest.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

I would kindly ask, why do not these union men get togther and settle this strike in a few days, and not fool along the way they have for the past three months. I have always been a friend of reasonable union men, but am certainly getting disgusted with their unreasonable maneuvers of the past three months. This strike could be settled in three days, and end the strife.

Dear, Dear

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

Can you tell me what is the matter with St. Louis?

Why it costs 100 per cent more to live here?

Why your realty combine want to make 30 per cent profit?

Why a dollar has one-half the purchasing power in other cities?

Why people do not come to St. Louis?

Why people who come without knowing hurry back?

Why a man is obliged to carry his pocketbook in his pistol pocket to escape the bland and smiling "World's Fair" type St. Louis grafter?

FRANK MINER.

Can Lawson Write?—Read This.

In "A Prediction Roll-Call," in the July Everybody's, Thomas W. Lawson pays his respects to an eminent justice in the following words:

"Mr. Justice Putnam is one of those really big men, those big-formed, big-headed and particularly big-faced men whose strong and sturdy ponderosity recalls the splendid strong-jowled Englishmen whom Hogarth so loved to limn in his pictures. As he sat on his throne, in a flowing black-silk robe, monarch—absolute monarch—of all he surveyed, gazing in a half-jolly, half-quizzical, two-thirds-judgely way at the midgets in front of him, I puzzled my brain trying to decide whether his mind was engaged in unraveling the complexities of Beck's argument, or whether it had wandered off upon memory's wings through fourteenth-century forests—making him one of a jovial, monkish company whose robust adventures he might have read the night before in some medieval romance. How well he would have fitted into some such robed and tonsured assembly as it sat round the haunch of venison and quaffed the new brew.

THE OFFICE BOY WRITES

Written for the Post-Dispatch
By Harrison Clark.

Dear Eddie:

We have come to Comfort Texas. The principal industries here are digging Bait and Catching fish, but mostly digging bait and also the Red bugs are very industrious.

We mostly go Fishing by ourselves but the other day the Mill man went with us. He caught Lots of Fish, and I caught Some, and after a while the Boss Caught 1. He called it a beauty but the Mill man said humm it Is a Sucker and the Boss went all Nutty. He said Some folks couldn't tell a trout from the Fish that Swallowed jonah and didn't know there was a difference between a sucker and a Summer boarder and I asked him was there? and he said Don't talk so much when you come Fishing. I could see he was not De Lighted, for he walked up and down swinging his Arms all loose at the elbows—you know how he does.

But this was not All the trouble we had. We had an awful accident the Mill man told us about it. A man was Drowned it was ten years ago. Two men one named Tom and the other named Bill went fishing in our very Spot and they had a lunch Basket and some ice and Some bottles. Bill he got too close to the water and fell in and Tom he made he rolk efforts to save his chum but he could Not and Bill's body went floating on Down the river toword E Ternity a place that is some Piece from here they say.

Poor Mr. Tom he got back on the bank and went sadly to the lunch basket and took out a bottle and he sighed hard and looked down the river and said "Poor Bill" twice. And then he felt in one pocket while he held the Bottle by the neck and then he felt in another pocket and looked like he had lost something and then he felt in all his other pockets. And then he Slapped his pockets all Over and when that did not do Any good he looked all through the lunch basket and that didn't do any Good either. So he Sat down on the ground and put the bottle between his knees and then he looked away toward E Ternity and commenced to cry and he said "Poor Bill" twice why didn't I try harder to Save you but I didn't Know Bill I didn't know that you had in your Pocket our only Cork screw."

And the Boss he says to the Mill man did they re Cover Bill's body in time? And the Mill man he asks in Time for what and he looks awful surprised when the Boss says to Save Tom's life and that's all I can write today but I will write again about the Red bugs. Yours truly,

SAMMY.

L. H. T.—Wages of city employes cannot be garnished. Report delinquents to the head of their department.

J.—Yellow was probably made a Papal color because of its beauty. It is the color of art and fine surroundings.

INSPECTOR.—Meat inspector must have sufficient knowledge of meats to detect those that are diseased and unfit for food.

INQUISITIVE.—Address your letter to "Mrs. John Smith" unless you happen to know that she prefers "Mrs. Jane Smith."

GAS.—See encyclopedias in reference room of Public Library, 911 Locust, for full details of the processes of making gas.

J.—Dogcatcher, resisted in his duties, can hold the resisting person for policeman. Garbage man resisted must call a policeman.

REMEDY.—Your drooping honeysuckle may be the victim of a mole, worms or domestic pets, or it may not have had sufficient water.

D. J. W.—Give the lady a birthday present consistent with your means. If she is intelligent, nothing would be better than a good book.

J. K. M.—To grow as much as nature will permit you must have good habits and observe the laws of health. Exercise, pure air and good food well chewed are important.

F. W.—Chief Swingley of the Fire Department is at home Sundays; at night he is at No. 40 Engine House, Eleventh and Lucas; during the day he will be found in his office.

I. X. L.—M ore halftones, made from photographs or "wash" drawings, are used by newspapers than "line" work. Most of the latter are made with ink, though black crayon reproduces as well.

A SUBSCRIBER.—Many letters are not published. Sometimes they are too long; sometimes they are anonymous; sometimes they are not correct; sometimes they are not written in moderation. Brevity is very important.

NEW RESIDENT.—Latin student to enter Washington University is examined in four books of Cesar, seven orations of Cicero and six books of Virgil's Enid. German student must read prose at sight with facility and translate easy sentences from English into German.

E. Z.—In manicuring the nails, soak in warm olive oil. This softens the surrounding cuticle and stimulates the growth, besides strengthening the substance of the nail itself. Lemon juice is most invaluable for beautifying the hands and preserving the finger nails spotless and pink.

LONGFOOT.—Perspiring feet: Wash them every night and morning with lukewarm water and soap—salicylic acid soap preferred. Put on clean stockings daily. If you care to economize, make a practice of washing your hose at night when you take your bath. Keep two or three pairs shoes in wear and change every other day. If necessary, daily dust with this astringent powder: Burnt alum, 5 grams; salicylic acid, 2½ grams; starch, 15 grams; talcum powder, 90 grams.

F.—Potato chips: For a few cents a potato slicer may be had. Peel two or three potatoes and slice; they should be as thin as paper. Throw into a bowl of water with ice in it and let them remain half an hour. Have a kettle with lard at least 3 inches deep and bring it gradually to a boil. When this is ready lay the chips, a few at a time, on a soft cloth and pat dry; drop quickly into the lard; they should turn a pale yellow quickly; skim out and lay them in a colander in the mouth of the oven; sprinkle with salt and serve hot. They should be perfectly free from grease.

A. S.—To soften hair: If the hair has become harsh from ill health, whether general or from trouble of the scalp, one of the first things is to improve the general health and to treat the scalp. Sometimes hair that is turning gray grows hard and wiry because it is losing its vitality and needs extra attention. Shampoo it monthly thoroughly but gently, using a good soap, but not applying it directly to the hair. Once in a while clean with a beaten egg. In all cases be careful not to rub the hair every way on the head, but lift from the scalp, and wash and rinse till free from soap or other application. If it can be dried in the sunshine, by rubbing lightly, first with a towel, then by running the fingers through it and lifting it, and tossing the locks around, that is best. Begin to brush from the ends down, starting farther up each time, and avoid pulling, and so take any snarls out easily. Take a very little vaseline on the tips of the fingers, and parting the hair in strands, massage the scalp well, being careful not to get vaseline on the hair. A little quinine mixed with vaseline and applied in a weekly massage is a good tonic.

We want the first thing to correct a misprint in our last items. We said that Farmington Sunday-school was in fine shape and in connection with that, that the attendance was 22, when it should have read 92 those mistakes may appear trifling to you but if you were in our shoes it would be different: we came in contact with some ladies that were connected with the school and it was only through a heard explanation that we saved ourself from being snatched baldheaded.

Corn is growing fast. So is the grass and weeds, but the progressive hustling farmer will not tolerate the weeds; as the writer looks out over the farms of the community, he sees some weedy, seedy and tumbling in; others clean, well kept and thrifty, looking, as a man's farm is, so is the make-up of the man who owns it.

All About We.

Culver Cor. the Butler (Mo.) Republican-Press.

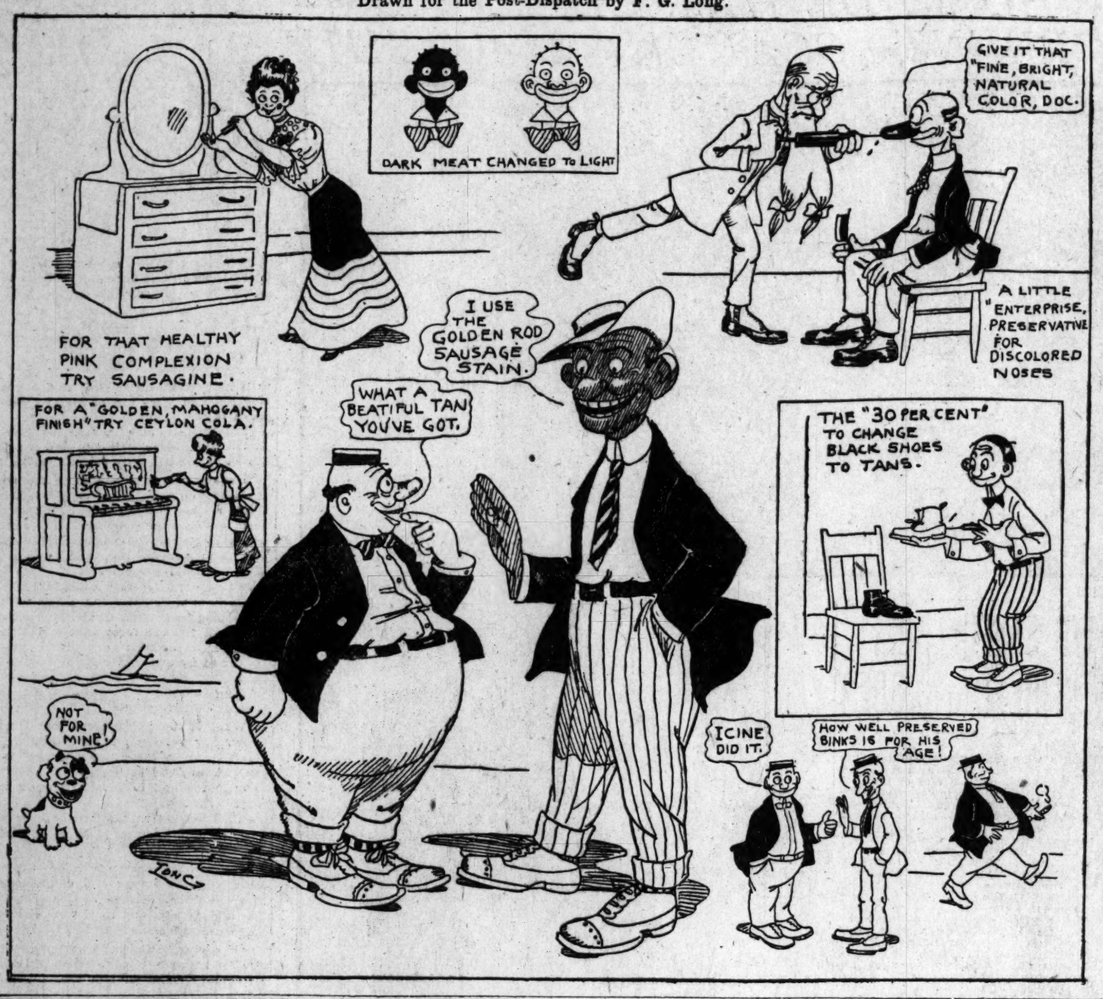

We had a splendid rain but the nights are a little cool.

We went fishing one day last week and had the usual fisherman's luck.

We had an experience the other day trying to hive a swarm of bees that will be stamped on our memory a long time. Whenever we see a bee coming toward us with the business end foremost we will certainly make ourself conspicuously absent in the future if we have any sort of warning.

THE WOMAN'S CORNER

If a servant in Germany falls ill her mistress is not allowed to discharge her, but must pay 50 cents a day for her hospital expenses until she is perfectly well.

Polish women, who are renowned for their beauty, the perfection of their hands and the smallness of their feet, value the fineness of their hands above all other charms.

Miss Ada F. Howie of Elm Grove, Wis., is authority on the dairy, not only as to the products, but in regard to the breeding of cows. She thinks that women are better adapted to the work than men.

Miss Florence Nightingale, the famous Crimean war nurse, who shares with the philanthropist Baroness Burdett-Coutts the honor of being one of England's "grand old women," is 86 years old. Miss Nightingale lives in quiet retirement in a house in the outskirts of London, which she has occupied for many years.

Inquisitive.

A little girl who was not feeling well was taken to see the doctor, relates Lippincott's Magazine. After feeling her pulse and inquiring the symptoms, he located the trouble as coming from the liver.

Greedy.

A Woman on a Ranch.

Eleanor Whiting in Leslie's Weekly.

For the woman with jaded nerves, who can stand a little hardship, there are few experiences mor invigorating or more enjoyable than a summer on a Montana cattle ranch. I know, because I have tried it. "Oh, God, help me to bear this for three months!" I cried in my heart when first I beheld the one-story log shack that was to be my temporary home, roofed and plastered as it was with yellow mud, and set down in a world of treeless, browny-green prairie, 22 miles from postoffice, railroad or store, and eight miles from the nearest neighbor.

But long before the three months were up, the spell of the great West was upon me, and I was in love with the dignity, the simplicity, the independence and the friendliness of the ranchman's life. To begin with, these ranch houses look infinitely worse from the outside than they really are. In summer time they are cooler, and in the winter warmer than a frame building would be, and the ranchwoman knows well how to give them the home touch inside, with white muslin draped between the rafters to form a domed ceiling, with books and pictures, and, as often as not, a piano that has been hauled forty miles, maybe, over the prairie.

All the same, housekeeping on a ranch is terribly hard work and taxes all a woman's courage, fidelity and resources. Every drop of water for cooking or cleaning has to be brought in by hand from a distant well or spring, and all the refuse water must be carried out with equal care, because ranch houses seldom have sinks. In this land of promise, where no one pays any rent, coal and wood are free for the trouble of getting them, but the ranchwoman is not likely to remember these bleadings when she sees her clean kitchen floor strewn with litter.

CONTAMINATION.

How do you defend yourself and your family against disease? Is your house clean? Your servants neat and methodical? Are you sure their knowledge extends beyond soap and water and into the realms of real healthy cleanliness?

Unless you, and they, know the germ-killing virtues of CN Disinfectant, its conquest of Contagion, Disease, Foul Odors, etc., unless you use CN Disinfectant freely in your home, from cellar to attic, you do not practice the principles of true healthy cleanliness.

CN Disinfectant is germicide and a deodorizer of peculiar merit. Physicians know its value.

Some old jokes are still the best. Witness the following, which has just been resurrected in Paris, and is now on its travels:

Alexandre Dumas the elder was always in need of ready cash, with the result that he frequently made the unwelcome acquaintance of bailiffs. One day a friend, knowing his charitable heart, appealed to him thus:

"I am asked to bring this case to your notice, a very deserving case. A poor woman, whose husband has just died, has not sufficient to bury him. He was a bailiff. A louis will suffice." Quoth Dumas: "A louis will suffice, eh? And he was a bailiff. Here are two louis; go and bury a couple."

Mother: Bob, if you're a good boy for an hour I'll give you two sous.

Ponson du Terrail, the great writer of serial stories, amused the last generation of Frenchmen with his blunders, The present generation may not have a Ponson du Terrail, but blunders are not lacking. This is a passage from a recent feuilleton: "No, I never read at night. As soon as I am in bed I turn out the electric light with one hand and go to sleep with the other."

FOR THE BOYS AND GIRLS

The Four Quarters of the Globe.

The players are seated in a circle, or around the room, and one takes a handkerchief and, throwing it at another, calls "Europe!" A timekeeper begins counting 10 rather quickly, and the person to whom the handkerchief was thrown must name some place, river, mountain, person or thing connected with some country of Europe, before number 10 is reached. It may be arranged that the person answering correctly puts the next question; if incorrect, or unable to answer, a forfeit must be paid.

The players must be wide-awake, for often the one who throws the handkerchief will look at one while throwing in quite a different direction.

The game may be made more difficult as well as interesting by taking special countries, and for older players a century may be given, and the famous characters belonging to it must be quickly thought out.

A New Baby.

A New Baby! What magic, what mystery, what charm these words have for us. Yet, how infinitely more they mean to the mother. A new life; short, to be sure, but full of possibilities. Some one must be patient, hopeful, watchful, proud and never discouraged. That "some one" is the mother. She has heard her baby's first cry, and whether it be her first or tenth, the feeling is the same. Her feeble arms are out-stretched; those arms that will never desert it as long as the mother shall live. And that hand which supports the head of the new-born babe, the mother's hand, supports the civilization of the world.

Is it any wonder, we ask you, mothers, that with all these responsibilities resting upon your all too weak shoulders, we urge upon you the necessity of selecting the babe's medicine with utmost care; the necessity of protecting your babe from worthless, unknown and narcotic drugs as you would protect it from the fire?

ST. LOUIS SHOT WINS BIG EVENT

Fred G. Rogers, 932A Hamilton Avenue, First in Grand America.

HE KILLED 95 BIRDS

Among Those Whom He Defeated Was Billy Crosby of O'Fallon.

Frederick E. Rogers, who won the great American trap shooting handicap at Indianapolis Thursday, is secretary of the O. L. Gregory Vinegar Co. and resides at 932A Hamilton avenue.

Mr. Rogers has not been doing much shooting for the past year or two, and the news of his victory was a surprise to his friends, who say that at Indianapolis he shot under unusual handicap conditions, his allotment hitherto having been more than 17 feet, the mark he shot from Thursday.

Mr. Rogers' score was 94 birds out of a possible 100, excellent shooting, considering that a strong and variable wind blew across the field all day, which caused the 261 contestants to make lower marks than they would otherwise have done.

Alex Mermod, the local expert, says that under ordinary conditions Mr. Rogers would have accumulated more birds.

Five traps were used in the shooting, the guns working in squads of five, 20 birds being released from each trap. The prize money amounted to $2674, which was divided among the first 50 high guns, Mr. Rogers share amounting to $26. He will also receive a silver trophy.

The St. Louisan's closest opponent was two points behind, L. I. Wade of Dallas, Tex., counting 92.

W. R. Crosby of O'Fallon, Ill., said to be the greatest shot in the world, was third with 90.

BRIGHTEST PERIOD OF BASEBALL SEASON

Coming Games Between Ravens and Cleveland, Detroit and Chicago Should Mark the High Water of Diamond Play in St. Louis for 1906.

The pearls of the baseball season will be thrown before St. Louisans this week. It is the good fortune of Mr. Hedges to get the cream of the dish at Sportsman's Park, good dates, good teams and just the psychological moment for the making of money.

Grievously as the Ravens disappointed lovers of keen baseball by their comparative failure in front of New York and total eclipse at the hands of the Athletics, they can reinstate themselves in the good graces of the public by playing keen, hard and worthy, if not winning, ball against Cleveland for three games, then Chicago, and finally Detroit, all three fine teams and all coming in good season.

The time is propitious. If these Ravens are going to do the things they led us to think they would do after their return from the East in May, now is the time. They have no excuses. Powell is sound again. Howell and Glade are fine. Jacobson is doing excellently.

No one dare say a word against Pelty. The team has been singularly happy from accident. Not a man on it is ailing or out. The weather has been splendid. It is keen enough to make a man spar with his grandmother if he can find no worthier opponent. The men have had three easy winning games against Washington and two days fine cool rest since then.

Now let us hear no more of this hard luck or tough, or he is hurt, or in bad luck, or it took a bad bound, or he was hard to hit today, or the luck will break bad, or any such old, silly rot. Let us hear no more about the baby food necessary for Hartzell and Niles or the sad misfortunes of wan Pether O'Brien. Every man on the team is old enough to vote and big enough to eat a horse. Now quit excusing and backing and filling and apologizing and play a few lines of baseball.

For the people want to see it and Hedges needs the money.

The truly great Cleveland Club, headed by Lajoie and leading the American League by a margin of 30 points, will begin a series of three games against McAleer's Ravens at Sportsman's Park, Friday afternoon. The visitors come from Detroit full of confidence with the prestige of a double victory over the Packers on Thursday. Lajoie and his men are eager to increase their present lead, if possible. The Ravens are as eager to improve their standing. St. Louis is only one game behind Detroit in the American League. If the locals can take the series from the Blues, which is problematic, they will likely move up into first division. Detroit opens in Chicago today. Comiskey's men are in the hunt for first division and can be relied to go at the Tigers with a full head of steam on.

McAleer is highly anxious to win Friday's game. He is a firm believer that a battle well begun is half won. The local chieftain will instruct his braves to go at Cleveland with vim and vigor. Powell, whose lame back has practically rounded to, will probably be used in one of the games against the Blues. Hardly this afternoon, as either Jacobson or Smith is due, but there is every reason to believe that the game and stalwart ex-boiler maker will work either Saturday or Sunday.

Lajoie will send either Joss or Rhoades against the Ravens. Both are highly effective and skilled workmen and the locals are bound to have their troubles with either.

The recent good showing of the Ravens against the Senators makes the local followers of the game hopeful. Of course the Nationals are not the Clevelands, but the locals showed batting form in the series against the Senators, which, if duplicated in the series about to begin, can hardly fail of reward.

FITZPORTER BACK IN MISSOURI A. C.

Lon Fitzporter, the crack St. Louis University all around athlete, has joined the Missouri Athletic Club and will play with the Cherry Diamond organization's nine, probably in the capacity of pitcher or catcher, Fitzporter being an excellent player in either position.

The M. A. C. team is now disputing with the Triple A team the leadership of the Triple A League. The addition of Fitzporter to the M. A. C. line-up will wonderfully enhance the chances of that team.

Besides being an expert ball player, Fitzporter is rated as a clever boxer. He vies with Sheridan, Maffitt, Winters and Pohlmann for the distinction of being the best handball player in the city.

TWO SAVED FROM FIRE BY LADDER

Flames were licking the doors to the bedrooms of John Becker and Louis Pimberton on the third floor of 2012 Locust street Friday afternoon, when Policeman Frank Munsil and C. J. Smith smashed in the windows and awakened the slumberers.

The men were hastily assisted onto a stepladder which had been placed on a projecting roof adjoining the building and escaped, Pimberton having a burned neck as a result of attempting to escape down the house stairway after he had been warned of the danger.

Crossed wires are supposed to have started the blaze. Flames were seen bursting from the upper floor by Frances Wittman, a waitress in a restaurant next door, and she ran to the street screaming an alarm.

The policemen were near by, and knowing that two men slept on the top floor in the daytime, they got a stepladder and stood it on top of a driveway roof. They climbed to the rooms and aroused the endangered men, forcing their way through the dense smoke.

Pimberton dashed for the door of his room, but it was ablaze. He tried to pass it, but the fire scorched his neck and the policemen dragged him to the window and compelled him to go down the ladder.

The loss is estimated by A. Amman, who conducts a saloon on the first floor, at $500.

STICKNEY COULD NOT COP THE SHORT PUTTS

Truly Best of All St. Louis Golfers Found His Old Bete Noire by His Side When He Played and Lost to Lambert on Thursday Afternoon.

'Tis sad to be singing swan songs for the truly best golfer in St. Louis but if Stuart Gordon Stickney will fall down on short putts, what can a poor girl do? Since the dead McNamara first laid consecrative hands upon his boyish brow and bade him go forth, play in "sthyle" and practice the gospel of golf, the short putt in the tight place has been Mr. Stickney's bete noir. It was so 10 years ago. It is so today. In 1897 we saw Mr. C. W. Scudder stab him to death with shorts putts. On Thursday we saw Mr. Albert Bond Lambert crucify him on the same 18-inch cross.

Mr. Lambert beat Mr. Stickney 3 up and 2 to play in their match in the local championship tournament at the Country Club Thursday afternoon. By excellent putting, the frequent running down of 10, 12 and 15 foot shots, the whilom champion of la belle France achieved his notable victory.

Lambert Began Badly.

Mr. Lambert began badly with topped tee shots and indifferent work through and on the green. They went to the ninth hole with Mr. Stickney 3 up and going like the Oregon at Santiago, with a "great bone in his teeth." Indeed, so great was his speed that the strollers about the links were tossed on the waves of his wash as rowboats bob on the breakers made by passing ferries. Mr. Lambert puffed and plugged along, seeming quite hopelessly in the rear.

Seeing he was in desperate plight and apparently doomed to defeat, Mr. Lambert tossed a dynamite shell at the fleeing Mr. Stickney in the shape of an 18-foot putt for a 3 on No. 9, which won him the hole. The shot hit the good cruiser Stuart full in the vitals, perforated his boilers and released the steam. Thereafter there was less vigor in the screw and the crew was plainly more or less panicky.

But why proceed with the painful details. The remaining nine holes are mere repetitions of great approaches and wonderful long putts by the late C of F and enthusiastic, but weak and unavailing efforts on the part of Mr. Stickney to counter them. So on the 16th green it was Mr. Stickney's courteous, but distasteful privilege to go up with a wan smile and shake the left hand that beat the best among the fair gentlemen of France.

McKittrick Overawes Potter.

The other matches were less interesting. A large gallery followed the fallen fortunes of Mr. Harry Potter while he was enjoying the privileges of playing with Ralph McKittrick. The tall terror of the thinlies plainly had the nervy little man worried from start to finish. When they fail to run up their approach putts, depend upon it that there is trouble in the hostile camp. Mr. Potter could not get his long putts up or his short ones down, which is a sign of work and weakness in the wrists. McKittrick kept plugging along about par as he always does in that absent-minded, bored, "my-head-is-in-the-clouds" sort of way he has. He was four up on No. 8, but Mr. Potter cut it to two on No. 11, but had to lose the next two holes. They broke away at the 15 green, four up and three to play.

Desperate Drives of Davis.

The good horse, Sam C. Davis, has been under the bat and down on his abdomen in this golf tourney. On Monday Harold Kauffman hiked him to a dead heat over the standard distance in 1:38 and a fraction, first six furlongs in 1:13 flat, and they had to turn an extra quarter in 23 to decide it. Mr. Davis won. Every quarter was run in :24 or better, or rather, it took a four to halve and a three to win every hole.

On Thursday Mr. Davis was somewhat stiff and sore and stale from previous hard races during the week. But conditions demanded that he tackle a Derby-winning 3-year-old in the person of William F. Orthwein, a fresh young fellow, little run as a 2-year-old, never beaten and with the prestige of many victories in his class with him.

When the barrier went up the youngster shot into a long and apparently safe lead.

A Great Finish.

Mr. Davis found it slow business warming up his stiffened limbs and plugged and plowed in the dim distance. At the stable turn Mr. Orthwein looked back and found he had a tremendous lead of four holes, and, taking a reef in his reins, began to get ready to cash his tickets on himself. Meanwhile, like the slow and patient tortoise of Esop's fables, Mr. Davis was "saving a rare try for hisself." He kept on hammering and hammering and getting nearer and war er until by the time they hit the stretch turn he was all aither and going two strides to Mr. Orthwein's one. As Mr. Orthwein was cantering along he heard a huge clatter behind him. Looking about he saw the portentious personality of Samuel C. bearing down upon him like a record-breaking Atlantic liner upon an anchored pilot boat. He scrambled to get up steam in a hurry but the big fellow behind had a head on that could not be denied. He caught Mr. Orthwein 50 yards from the wire, and ina ding-dong scratch-dirt, touch-wood and dig-gravel finish got up in time to win by a wink.

Mr. Orthwein's performance was most creditable for a colt. He would have beaten one of the best handicap horses in the country were it not for the carelessness of his rider. As for Mr. Davis, he is sure "there" under the gad.

King Arthur's Soft Spots.

Arthur Stickney, whose lines in this tournament have been cast in soft and pleasant places, defeated Mr. Duncan Joy 8 up and U to play, an inhuman beating to give the dearest and best fellow in the world, who is on the eve of bidding a regretted farewell to St. Louis to abide in New York.

And so they go into the semi-finals today, McKittrick against Lambert and Lambert and Stickney against Davis, all Country Club men. Mr. Orthwein was the only other man from another club to get in the last eight.

McKittrick and Stickney are the favorites. McKittrick is playing par golf every day. He is not hitting cleanly or in good form, but he is getting results. Stickney is not hitting cleanly, either, nor is he scoring as well as McKittrick. Mr. Lambert is also hitting with indecision and lack of precision. He had a lucky putting streak on Thursday, but that does not come every day. Such things are always reversed by an all-wise providence for the personal benefit of Mr. S. G. Stickney.

It is said of great stake horses that they never win by more than the necessary margin. If we apply this theorem to golfers, then is Mr. Davis greater than Braid. In this tournament he has won two matches 1 up. The experts do not class him with the stars, but my word on't, he is playing good golf. The matches this afternoon will be fine. May you be there to see them.

THE SPORTSMAN'S NICHE

Be heedful of advice, then proceed.
My work the precept is, be thine the deed.
—Pope.

In a surprisingly cogent and interesting, if somewhat diffuse, article the Globe-Democrat of June 21 discusses the utter improbability of the supercession of Hartzell and Niles of the Raven team and winds up with the following pithy recommendations: "So far as being worried about their being displaced by any so-called 'wonders' from a minor league such as the Tri-state, they can afford to pay attention to it and devote their time and energy to improving their batting. Both Hartzell and Niles are of major league caliber and sooner or later they will prove it."

UPON THE RIGHT TRACK.

It is upon this string that the Post-Dispatch has been perpetually harping. And it is a real pleasure to find a paper which not so very long ago twitted the Post-Dispatch with its reiteration of this advice commend it.

Unquestionably it would be the most asinine sort of a mistake for Mr. McAleer to permit Niles or Hartzell to leave the orbit of his daily vision. While neither is a yet finished major League ballplayer, each possesses the basic qualities of greatness. If a running horseman has a 2-year-old colt which displayed conformation and speed enough to once run a quarter of a mile in 22 seconds—the standard time is 24 seconds—he would regard him as a most valuable property, even if he did not immediately or consistently repeat the feat or display a disposition to carry his speed to a greater distance.

So it is with Niles and Hartzell. They possess speed and conformation. This being so it is up to Mr. McAleer to teach them baseball.

Of all the creatures men and birds are, in infancy, the most helpless. Ducks swim as soon as hatched, colts eat as soon as foaled. Birds must be taught to fly and to sing. So must babies be taught to walk and to talk. Swimming does not come natural to the human race. It does to animals. Playing baseball is an acquired art, not a natural gift. It must be learned and it must be taught.

What is there to prevent Roy Hartzell from becoming another John McGraw, Harry Niles another William Keeler? Hath not Hartzell hands to grasp, arms to throw, eyes to see, legs to run and brains to think, just as McGraw had? Is he not young, and fair and agile? Why, now why, is it not possible for him to become a great man at the bat and in the game of baseball? Why?

Niles is faster than Keeler ever was. He is a mere boy; can see as well, hear as well, understand as well. Why should he not be what the great Keeler has been?

McGraw and Keeler and Jennings were not born great. Men who should know rejected Keeler and chose Brouthers, refused Jennings for Voiceless Tim O'Rourke, deemed McGraw inferior to Billy Shindle. Practice and application and thought and hard work—above all things application and hard work—made the men great.

Of course, McAleer is not going to reject Niles for Dougherty. One month ago he refused to pay $1000 for Dougherty when the New York club asked waivers of claim on him that it might release him to Cincinnati. Every club in the American League rejected the outfielder. He has not done anything since to cause them to regret their action.

McAleer paid $2500 for Hartzell. Cincinnati paid $3500 for Arndt. The latter is hitting much better than Hartzell. Yet neither McAleer nor any competent judge of baseball players would trade Hartzell for the Cardinal with the odd thousand to boot.

The Globe-Democrat sums up the situation beautifully. The Raven team is all right as far as personnel of players goes. It needs only keen instruction and close study at third base and in right field. There are possibilities in Hartzell and Niles. And were I Mr. McAleer I would get them out of them or know the reason why.

The genial and smiling Sardius Smith announces that he will issue his annual invitation to Miss May Sutton to play tennis at his Triple A courts. And will Miss May, in the futile future, as in the passive past, reply "Nay, nay, Sardine?"

Go Between certainly went between starting post and winning post in the Brooklyn and also brought home the dough. That is the kind of a go between to have working for you.

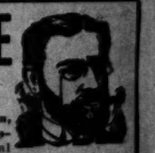

In its report of the Lambert-Stickney golf match the Globe-Democrat says, "he, Lambert, holed an 18-foot putt for a 3, giving him the hold 4-5," and again "Stickney sliced his and it curved to the left. And to think, Miles J., that we followed the McKittrick-Potter match and depended upon you for details of the Lambert-Stickney slaughter. Once more and for the last time you have what Sairey Gamp would call "bagely trun us down."

S.S.S. FOR THE BLOOD

The purifying action and curative properties of this great remedy have made "S. S. S. For The Blood" a household saying, and thousands who are today enjoying perfect health owe their recovery from blood or skin diseases to this universally used blood medicine. S. S. S. is made entirely from roots, herbs and barks which possess not only cleansing and healing ingredients, but building-up and strengthening properties to keep the blood in perfect order. No one can be well when the blood is impure; they lack the energy and strength that is natural with health, the complexion becomes pale and sallow, the vitality is weakened and they suffer from a general broken down condition. When the waste or refuse matter, which nature intends shall be thrown off, is left in the system because of a sluggish, torpid condition of the expelling members, it is absorbed into the blood, making this vital stream weak, sour and acrid, and its condition is manifested by boils, pimples, rashes, blotches and other eruptions of the skin. S. S. S. goes into the circulation and removes every particle of blood taint or poison of every character, makes the blood fresh and strong and gives energy to the entire body. When the blood has been cleansed by S. S. S. all skin diseases and eruptions pass away and the smooth, clear skin, growing with health, shows that the body is being nourished by rich, pure blood. Rheumatism, Catarrh, Sores and Ulcers, Scrofula, Contagious Blood Poison, etc., are all deep-seated blood disorders, and for their cure nothing equals S. S. S. It does not injuriously affect the most delicate parts of the body and can be taken with perfect safety by old or young. WHEAT FUTURES BARELY STEADY

Trade Is Badly Mixed as to the Future Price Movement.

Wheat was easy today in the face of a reactionary movement in the coarse grains. Cables were a sustaining influence and offerings were light at all times.

Traders are not inclined to follow either side of the market aggressively and are waiting for weather developments in the Northwest to give them their cue to the future market movement.

Reports from the winter wheat sections are encouraging and the harvest is progressing without serious interruption. The yield reported is generally satisfactory and in some sections is well above expectations.

Liverpool prices showed closing gain of ⅜d on wheat, but a loss of ⅜d on corn. Paris prices closed unchanged to ¼c lower, Berlin ¼c lower, Budapest unchanged and Antwerp unchanged. All foreign markets reported a quiet speculation.

Minneapolis and Duluth reported 226 cars of wheat, against 156 last week, 167 last year and 235 two years ago. Winnipeg reported 76 cars, against 57 last year.

The Argentine shipments were bullish, the figures showing:

ARGENTINE SHIPMENTS.

	Wheat.	Corn.
This week	1,640,000 bu	2,876,000 bu
Last week	1,695,000 bu	2,169,000 bu
Last year	2,816,000 bu	2,136,000 bu
Two years ago	1,792,000 bu	2,526,000 bu
Jan. 1 to date	65,875,000 bu	27,657,000 bu
Year ago	73,093,000 bu	25,311,000 bu

Wheat decreased 7,218,000 bu; corn increased 2,346,000 bu.

The Modern Miller says: The winter wheat harvest is progressing with little interruption from unfavorable weather. Where threshing is completed or going on the yield is generally satisfactory, and in many instances is above expectations. The fine character of the wheat is especially commented upon, the test weight being heavy and the milling quality equal to last year's crop. Rains relieved the drouth in Nebraska and Northern Kansas, but crop conditions in that locality are regarded as unsatisfactory.

Traders were inclined to take the selling side of corn in the face of the lower cables, and the improved weather conditions. The cash business, from the domestic standpoint, is less favorable and the foreign demand small. No crop damage reports were received.

Oats were quiet and easy in sympathy with the other grains.

WALL STREET MARKET MAKES A RECOVERY

Shorts Cover Contracts After an Early Raid on Prices.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

NEW YORK, June 22.—Securities prices showed an irregular range at the opening of the Stock Exchange session today. Trading was again active and sentiment among the professionals distinctly bearish.

The general market situation is still an uncertain one and good and bad factors are seen in the recent developments. The increased dividends on Baltimore & Ohio and American Locomotive indicate that insiders are desirous of holding stocks at the present level owing to the fact that they have the bulk of the securities.

On the other hand the break in the Southern iron market is taken to indicate a coming setback in this important industry and if this is the case lower prices on securities are a certainty. London took a depressed view of the situation and prices on American issues in that market were lower.

London was a seller of stocks in the early market and consols show a very substantial decline, which is not explained in any of the foreign messages.

One of the Washington dispatches this morning intimates the President is considering a plan to take criminal action in certain corporations mentioned, that have been violating the rebate law.

Whether this information is inspired or not remains to be seen, but there is a general feeling of uneasiness throughout the financial district, and, in fact, throughout the country.

Corporation baiting has become the national sport and the result is uneasiness in business and financial circles. How long it is going to be kept up cannot be determined, but presumably the exigencies of personal popularity and politics can alone determine when a cessation can be expected.

Much has been made of the cut in pig iron and all because of the old theory that the steel and iron industry is the clearest index of trade conditions.

It is evident that there is not the same aggressiveness in certain industries that there has been, but it is absurd to assume that we have reached the culmination of the present period of prosperity in a day.

Apparently the elimination of Congress will not suffice to remove the menace of Washington, inasmuch as the executive apparently committed himself to a period of summer activity.

Other conditions are not inimical to the market. An agreement has been reached on the railroad rate bill, which will become a law in a few days.

The market was quiet at the noon period, with money loaning on call at 2¾ per cent.

Prices on This Class of Securities Show No Material Change.

The sales were small at the early session of the Stock Exchange today and the price range showed little change from yesterday. The outside speculative inquiry continues light and brokers trading among themselves are responsible for most of the trades.

The traction securities were quiet, an odd lot of United Railways common at $51.37½ and $1000 in United Railways 4s at $88.62½ being the only sellers. The preferred stock was steady on bids at $81 and offers at $82, ex-dividend 1¼ per cent.

The bank list was quiet, Missouri-Lincoln Trust at $133.50, being the most active issue. An odd lot of Commerce brought $320.

Granite-Bimetallic Mining at 20c for 500 shares was the other active issue. The bond list showed no material change.

A LOOK IN THE PAST AND A GLIMPSE IN THE FUTURE

Some Facts Regarding the Auction Tomorrow

¶With the desire to impress upon St. Louisans why property in Southampton is certain to increase in value, and the reasons we have for believing that it will become a center of population in a short time, we give the following facts. Facts are their own best commentators; they enable persons to form intelligent opinions of their own.

¶St. Louis will soon be a city of a million people. This will mean thousands of new homes for the accommodation of the increased population.

¶Some years ago the trend of population was towards what is now the Central West End. In a short space of time this section built up solidly, and the march of progress continued westwardly beyond King's highway to the city limits. The result of this great movement of population was that values in the West End grew beyond the reach of the average homeseeker, and he turned his thoughts elsewhere for a home site.

¶ The Central Southwestern district, on account of its natural beauty and convenience, appealed to him, and it soon became the Mecca for homeseekers and builders. Statistics at the City Hall show that building operations in the vicinity of Grand and Arsenal street during the past year reached a point unparalleled in the history of the city.

¶ Values have increased and are increasing, and at the rate St. Louis is growing today, it will only be a matter of a short time before the available ground will be held at prices out of proportion to the means of the home builder. History will then repeat itself, and the tendency will be to go forward in a direct line as was the case in the West End. The improvements will extend far beyond King's highway and what are now large tracts of vacant ground will be transformed into small lots and comfortable homes.

¶ Increased values follow in the wake of population, and the man who is far-sighted enough to realize these facts and take advantage of them, will be the one to profit. He will have his home in mind and can say "I'll live on the land while it grows in value, putting interest and taxes in place of rent. When the price is high enough, I'll sell for sufficient profit and meanwhile, I shall have acquired another home site on cheaper ground for my home."

¶Southampton is in the direct line of this great improvement, and will be the first affected by the natural growth of the city, owing to the fine improvements in the way of streets, sidewalks, gutters, sewers, etc. In fact the number of residences and pretty flats already erected there is an evidence of the desirability of the property. Being located on King's highway, which, as a result of the recent Bond Election, will soon be transformed into one of the handsomest boulevards in America, it will receive the direct benefit of the advantages to accrue to all property situated on that thoroughfare.

¶ At the auction tomorrow the owners expect to realize prices far lower than the property is actually worth, but we are instructed to let them go regardless of prices. It might be asked, if such is the case, why do not the owners wait until the market warrants asking full prices for the lots. The fact of the matter is, they are not actuated by philanthropic motives, but on the contrary have a selfish idea in view. They own hundreds of beautiful acres adjoining this property, which, as these lots are improved, will correspondingly enhance in value. Consequently they are satisfied to let them go at any price, feeling assured that the building movement which is expected to follow the auction will so favorably affect their additional holdings as to amply repay them the difference.

¶ The sale will commence at 2 o'clock.

¶ Every convenience will be afforded for the accommodation of interested parties. Refreshments provided. Brass band will render music. Free "Southampton Cars." Take them on Pine street.

COMPROMISE REJECTED.

Iron Workers Refuse to Accept Less Than $5.

The offer of the Structural Steel and Iron Association of one-third of the increase demanded by the union of structural iron workers was refused by the latter body and the strike instituted by the workers, who demanded $5 instead of $4.40 a day, is still on.

Work at the Shields School, however, has been resumed.

The association held a meeting Thursday following the refusal of their offer of $4.60 a day and decided to withdraw the offer and fight it out with the union.

RETURNS TO FIND HIS WIFE MARRIED

Sailor Had Been Missing Nineteen Years and Wife Collected Insurance.

HE DISAPPEARS AGAIN

Leaves Without Seeing Former Spouse, Now His Brother's Wife.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

LYNN, Mass., June 22.—David Hollis, who was supposed to have been drowned 19 years ago, quietly returned to this city a few days ago, but finding his former wife had married his brother, Benjamin C. Hollis, 15 years ago, he left the city again and disappeared.

In 1875 Mr. and Mrs. David Hollis were married. They lived together 15 years. Then Mr. Hollis began operating a sand schooner from Plum Island to Lynn. One time, after the schooner had left Plum Island, news was received here that the vessel was lost at sea, and that Mr. Hollis had been drowned. He was "survived" by three children—two boys and a girl.

After four years Mrs. Hollis, being in poor circumstances, and supposing her husband dead, as she had received his insurance money, married Benjamin Hollis. Two children came.

It has now been learned from good authority that David Hollis was in this city recently, making inquiries, and learned that his wife was married. His disappointment was so great that he left wthout meeting any of his relatives.

A peculiar incident is the fact that his daughter, Mary, has many times in conversation referred to her confidence that her father would some day return alive and well.

Where Hollis has been all these years no one knows. It is supposed that he never sailed from Plum Island on his schooner.

It is supposed by some of the relatives that Hollis has been away seeking his fortune, and having attained it he returned to secure his wife and children, but when he learned his wife was married he returned to his unknown abode to spend the rest of his life.

BURGLARIES REPORTED.

News of Many Depredations Reach the Police.

T. A. Nelsch, a jeweler at 1125 North Vandeventer avenue, reported to the police Friday that some time Thursday night his place of business was entered and a gold ring and watch valued at $75 were taken.

When Mrs. Oscar M. Stanley of 932 Catalpa street returned to her home from a shopping expedition Thursday evening she learned from her neighbors that a burglar had tried to get into her house. According to the neighbors the burglar went into the cellar and, finding that he could not gain acess to the house from there, got a ladder and was in the act of climbing to the kitchen window when the neighbors frightened him away.

Dr. W. A. Hall, a druggist at 4209 Blaine avenue, refused to prosecute five boys who stole two boxes of cigars from his store. When discovered the boys were passing the cigars around to their friends.

Victor J. Klutho of 2721 South Compton avenue, while at Delmar Garden Thursday night, was relieved of his meal ticket, $11 in money and a gold watch charm.

Mrs. L. F. Coburn, stopping at the Hotel Lawton, 3500 Lawton avenue, left her room for a short time Thursday afternoon. When she returned she missed a gold watch and chain worth $60.

Paul J. Bareis of 2503 Sullivan avenue was awakened early Friday morning by a noise at the rear window. Tiptoeing his way to the back room, he saw a man in a slouch hat opening the shutter. The burglar saw Bareis about the same time and, slamming the window shutter to, said "Good morning" and fled.

BAND OF ONE HUNDRED.

The Banda Rossa and Alps Orchestra Unite Forces.

For the first time since the days of Patrick Gilmore 100 musicians were heard playing together at the Alps Thursday night. The Banda Rossa and the Alps orchestra united in rendering Svendsen's "Coronation" march as the final number of the program.

Friday night the two organizations will alternate with selections from Wagner and will unite in the last number, Westmeier's "Kaiser" overture. The same plan will be followed Saturday night, Victor Herbert's "American Fantasie" being the final selection. This concert will close the engagement of the Banda Rossa.
